Drifting Along
End Old Debt, Make New
Why Red Stenographers?
Maria Del Pilar

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Co.

Drifting along, with conditions getting a little worse, describes the coal and railroad strikes. Railroads are cutting off scores of trains, especially commuters' trains. Commuters must travel anyhow, and that saves operating difficulty without forfeiting income.

There is talk of coal rationing by the government, the same as in war days, an unnecessary extension of the war period.

The President means to settle the two strikes by arbitration if possible; in some other way if necessary. He is in earnest about it, and that is encouraging.

If the strikes drift on, the country will find itself with millions out of work, and a great industrial setback when there ought to be building up in every direction.

Workmen depending on coal and the transportation of working materials will, of course, be the greatest sufferers, if the strikes last.

This is the European suggestion for adjusting matters over there: England will be asked to cancel the debt that France owes her. This country will be asked to cancel its entire European debt of more than ten thousand million dollars, and to make a new loan in addition, and all start over again happily.

Thus France would get rid of her debt to England, her debt to the United States. England would get rid of her debt to the United States, so that forgiving the French debt would cost her nothing.

And we would make another gigantic loan, to be told in due course of time that it is our duty to cancel that new debt also and make another loan.

If we accept this suggestion, it is suggested that France will be content to take only all the money that Germany has, without insisting on absolute German bankruptcy and collapse.

It is not a bad program—for Europe.

Mr. Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, to his regret, has been obliged to take away the charter of New York Stenographers, Bookkeepers and Accountants' Union. The union is too "Red," too radical. It uses rough words like "capitalist" and "class consciousness," so it must die and start over again. Why are some stenographers "Red"? Because they are on the "inside." They know how BIG MONEY is made, how it is spent, and some other things.

The proud and haughty Mexican deputy, Francisco Dejeda Llorca, did not like things written by Jesus Y. Moreno, editor of El Heraldo de Mexico. So Llorca shot and killed Moreno. That's chapter one.

Chapter two finds Moreno's daughter, Maria Del Pilar, fifteen years old, standing in front of Llorca's house. When he comes out she kills him with four bullets. She promised to do that over her father's dead body.

Llorca didn't like what Moreno said on public questions. Now both are where they will have all eternity to talk it over.

Chapter three, to be the most interesting, will tell what the Mexicans do with Maria Del Pilar, who said she couldn't allow life to remain in the man that killed her father.

The Bolshevik government has a disagreeably frank way. A letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury protested against prosecution of Russian clergy refusing to use Church treasures to feed the poor.

The Archbishop suggested that England would send over a little commission to investigate Russian methods.

The Russian government replies that it would rather have "the Soviet send to England a small commission to investigate to what extent the laboring masses are exploited materially and spiritually by the hierarchies

CORONER REFUSES TO HEED DEMAND

Medical Examiner Clings to His Report Death Was Due to Accident

Bridgeport, Ct., July 12.—Despite the intense pressure brought to bear, Coroner John J. Phelan today stated definitely that he would not order an autopsy of the body of Mrs. Jane Richmond Borden Hotchkiss, bride of Edward S. Hotchkiss, wealthy retired head of the Hotchkiss Machine Gun Company.

He made public the report of Medical Examiner W. H. Donaldson. Despite absolute evidence that Mrs. Hotchkiss had take npolson and leaped into the water, Examiner Donaldson's report says that Mrs. Hotchkiss came to her death through accidental drowning.

Summer colonists at Fairfield Beach, where the body of the young wife of the elderly manufacturer was found, point to the statement of Dr. James A. Christian of Fairfield that the death "was a well planned case of suicide."

Steps are afoot to compel Coroner Phelan to change his mind about his determination not to perform an autopsy.

Dr. Christian insists that Mrs. Hotchkiss came to her death from cyanide.

The investigation of the case has brought about the following information, which tends to show that fear of blackmail may have been the thing that prompted Mrs. Hotchkiss to end her life.

1—The wealthy manufacturer married the girl who was almost twenty-five years his junior, after a short courtship about which little information is vouchsafed.

2—Mrs. Hotchkiss had been married before, and divorced.

3—Mr. Hotchkiss was renovating his Summer estate at Fairfield Beach preparatory to occupying it with his bride when Mrs. Hotchkiss took the poison and threw herself into the sea.

4—All the evidence points to the fact that she did not die of accidental drowning.

5—The evidence points to the fact that her suicide was hastened by a mysterious rendezvous on the beach sands with a young man who apparently threatened her with something.

6—Although Mrs. Hotchkiss had her husband's automobile at her disposal, she came to the beach from Bridgeport on the day of her death in a hired taxi.

The taxi in which she was driven

Back Bay Widow Who Gave Up Business Career to Marry Insurance Official

Back Bay Widow in Elopement

Mrs. Burke was until July 1, Mrs. Louise May and she conducted the engraving business of her late husband, Charles May. Mr. Burke, she told a Boston American reporter today, courted in whirlwind fashion and as a result she abandoned her business career to become his wife. They were secretly married here on July 1

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR W. BURKE

RAIL PACT NEAR

BACK BAY WIDOW ELOPES

Mrs. Louise May Married to Arthur W. Burke, Aetna Insurance Manager

A secret marriage and elopement with Arthur W. Burke, general manager of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, was revealed today by Mrs. Louise May, charming Back Bay widow.

Radiant and smiling when discovered in her "love nest" at the Hotel Homeway, Mrs. Burke recited her romantic adventure. Since the death of her first husband, Charles May, she has, despite her youth, carried on the Charles May Engraving business on Federal street.

"I met Mr. Burke less than a year ago," she declared. "He appeared interested that a woman should run a large business. Soon, however, I found myself courted in whirlwind fashion and our romance resulted."

"He insisted that I give up business for his love and our happiness. In the few months that quickly passed I decided to do this and on July 1 we were secretly married here, and in the early morning hours we eloped by motor to Long Island, New York.

"There for one short week we spent our 'vacation honeymoon' and business called Arthur back to Boston. Not even our most intimate friends knew of our romantic trip until we returned. We will spend the remainder of our honeymoon here until we build a real "love nest" in Brookline or Chestnut Hill."

Then this charming matron concluded with a smile: "Arthur is a great business man but he is a wonderful lover and husband. No wonder that almost instantly I yielded to his protestations to give up my career as a business woman for our love."

Today the entire Burke suite at the Hemenway as well as the executive offices of Mr. Burke's company are filled with American Beauty roses. In the centre of the Hemenway room bower is "Smiling Louise Burke," also an American beauty.

ROBERTS QUITS COURT

Walks Out After Clash With Commissioner Hayes at Liquor Trial

Acid dialogue marked an encounter between Prohibition Enforcement Agent James F. Roberts and United States Commissioner Hayes today.

The tilt occurred at the beginning of a trial for alleged violation of the liquor law. Without prelude Roberts suddenly said:

"Commissioner Hayes has disqualified himself to hear this case and I am unwilling to go on with it. I asked that the case be turned over to some other commissioner."

In previous differences with Mr. Hayes, Mr. Roberts had announced that he would "no longer submit to Mr. Hayes' nonsense." He has characterized the commissioner as "the greatest stumbling block in Massachusetts to the proper enforcement of the prohibition law."

Commissioner Hayes retaliated by saying that Roberts shrouded his rights under the law in his enforcement of the prohibition statutes.

Mr. Roberts came back with a statement that the proceedings in Hayes' court were farcical and "a travesty on justice."

Hayes countered by criticising Roberts for permitting his wife to accompany him on raids.

Roberts retorted that Mrs. Roberts would accompany him whenever she chose to do so. He expressed the pious hope that "some day Commissioner Hayes will wake up to his true status as a stumbling block to law enforcement and reform."

Following his dramatic announcement in Commissioner Hayes' Court today, Roberts turned angrily on his heel, summoned his agents who were scattered throughout the courtroom and abruptly withdrew.

Commissioner Hayes jauntily announced he would issue a subpoena for Roberts' appearance in court tomorrow, for a continuance of the trial.

Assistant United States District Attorney William J. White, Jr., added fuel to the flames by saying:

"We've always had departmental co-operation heretofore to get these cases before Your Honor. If summonses must be resorted to, I would advise them in this case. If this witness is summoned and fails to appear, he may be adjudged in contempt of court."

Which statement appeared to please Commissioner Hayes highly.

The case on trial was that of Byce Elkington and Daniel Young, arrested for alleged unlawful possession of liquor on their vessel, Lake Strymon, raided last week at Lewis Wharf.

Regains Sense of Smell

Los Angeles, July 12.—A sense of smell was given to a seven-year-old girl, born with a defective nose, by an operation before the convention of the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Oto-Laryngology. Dr. T. J. Ruddy of Los Angeles performed the operation.

Boston Woman Is Awarded Croix de Guerre

Beirut, July 12.—Miss Mary Holmes of Boston has received the Croix de Guerre from the French government for her work in relieving destitution in the Urfa district of Asia Minor, where she has been in charge of the activities of the American Commission on Relief in the Near East for three years.

Award of the decoration was made at a banquet given in her honor by General Gouraud, commanding the French forces in Syria.

AUTOIST DRIVES INTO OPEN LIFT WELL

From out of the sunlight into a dark Bay garage, to drive without warning into an elevator well and crash to a sub-basement two floors below and escape practically unhurt, was the experience today of Arthur Fiefield, a chauffeur.

He is employed by a motor car company with a garage at No. 353 Newbury street.

The elevator which carries cars to floors above has an automatic gate which shuts when the elevator goes up. Today the gate failed to work.

Fiefield drove in from the street, his eyes failing to penetrate the darkness immediately after the glare of sun on asphalt. He noted the gate up and believed the elevator there. A slight pressure on the gas, a scream followed by a crash and frightened employes expected to pick Fiefield up dead. He was taken to City Hospital, where his injuries comprise scratches and bruises.

He lives in Dorchester and is twenty-three years old.

Labor Board Chairman Predicts Quick Settlement of Strike

Chicago, July 12 (By the Associated Press).—A program for solution of the railroad shopmen's strike was drawn up today by Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States Labor Board, after conferences with leaders of the shopmen, and was submitted to representatives of the railway executives from four sections of the country at noon today.

Chairman Hooper's program which is said to represent the minimum acceptable to the striking shopmen, is to be carried again to the shopmen's leaders later today, with the comments and counter-proposals of the executives.

When Chairman Hooper left the Labor Board office for the meeting with the four executives, he said he was confident some plan of settlement could be reached quickly.

He said he expected to call President Harding on the telephone with a report on the success of his conference with the railway presidents.

The conference of Chairman Hooper and the railway executives is said to be the direct result of a 10-minute telephone conversation he had last night between President Harding and W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the Railroad Labor Board.

The promises of the executives to receive the shopmen's proposals

SCHOONER STRIKES ON PORTSMOUTH LEDGE

Portsmouth, N. H., July 12.—The three-masted schooner Harriet B. of Providence, bound for New York from St. John, N. B., went ashore today at Three Sisters Ledge, a mile from Gerrish Island. A tug succeeded in pulling her away after four hours' work, and she proceeded without any extensive damage. Captain Jos Murphy of Somersworth was making his last trip as skipper of the Harriet B. when she went ashore.

FLOOD OF BILLS COMES AFTER FAMILY FLEES

An avalanche of bills is believed to have been the cause of the sudden disappearance of Albert F. Debrasee.

With his wife and three children, Debrasee left his home at No. 11 Francis street, Waltham, three weeks ago. The whole town has been talking about the mysterious disappearance since.

A checkup of the facts showed that Degrasee, who earned $37 a week as a route boss in the employ of the Hathaway Bread Company, found himself burdened with a score of obligations he could not meet.

He owed the rent for his house. He had a $100 note to meet on a second-hand automobile the day he loaded a few personal effects in the car and went away. He owed a bill for gas and numerous other bills to local tradesmen.

Mrs. Edith Dewce Debrasee, too, owed money. One claim was made by a book club company which claimed an account of $85.

It is alleged that of sixteen payments due Mrs. Debrasee had met only one. Money was also owing to the Berry Furniture Co. of Waltham for the furniture in the house, all of which had been leased.

Mrs. Ethel Young, who lives across the street from the house formerly occupied by the Debrasees, said that she saw the family leave in the car twenty-one days ago.

She said that the husband loaded a comforter, four pillows, considerable bed clothing and other articles on the car, including a Victrola.

This, the Berry Company alleges, is one of the things Debrasee leased and failed to pay for.

Thus is punctured the mystery of the missing Debrasees. It is believed the family has gone either to Lynn, where Debrasee has relatives, or to Maine, where he formerly lived.

PONZI APPEARS IN COURT HERE ON FRIDAY

Charles Ponzi, coupon wizard, will be in Boston Friday.

He will come from the Plymouth jail on a writ of habeas corpus, Attorney-General Allen announced today, to appear at the Suffolk County Superior Court.

The hearing will be on two motions made by Ponzi in connection with the twenty-two indictments brought against him by the State. One of these will be motion to fix bail on the State indictments. Inasmuch as Ponzi holds to be paroled by the government on the Federal charges, he wants to secure his liberty on bail on the State charges. The second motion is for a date for trial of the State's charges.

DOCTOR HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Dr. Charles S. Millett of Bay State Road was in Roxbury Court today before Judge Palmer, charged with passing a worthless check. He pleaded not guilty. The check was given to Nathan Rosethal of No. 1411 Washington street, Boston, by a stranger at his store. The check was returned marked no funds. Rosethal then brought complaint against Dr. Millett, but in the meantime the son of the doctor came forward and squared with Rosethal, who gave him the disputed check. The judge complained that this procedure of requiring the check was irregular and continued the case till Friday.

WAY CLEARED FOR QUICK SETTLEMENT OF RAILROAD STRIKE

through Chairman Hoover is understood to have been communicated to Mr. McMenimen by the President.

President Harding's proclamation resulted today in a public declaration by the "strike conduct" committee of the Eastern railroads, that they would "continue on strike until a satisfactory settlement is reached, even if every mail train in the district is cancelled."

Disorders occurred at Chicago, Milwaukee, Sayre, Penn., Orrville, Ohio Dennison, Tex., and at Roodhouse, Ill. Bert Lickson, said to be a nephew of W. G. Bierd, railroad president, was tarred and feathered by a masked band.

Two car repairers were reported to have been abducted at Marion Ohio, and at Pana, Ill., a carman left town under threats of strikers.

The situation at Bloomington, Ill., remained tense, with troops holding the yards and shops. Frequent shootings and the general hostile attitude of strikers and large crowds of sympathizers kept National Guardsmen on constant vigilance. Meanwhile city and county authorities were attempting to re-establish civil government.

REFUSE TO TAKE OUT TRAINS.

Engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors announced that they would refuse to enter the Alton yards at Bloomington to take out trains as long as machine guns bristled in the shops.

They voted only to operate mail trains unless the trains were delivered to them outside the shop district during the encampment of the troops in the yards.

Strike Orders Issued to U. S. Regulars

Washington, July 13.—Orders to Federal troops to hold themselves in readiness for duty in carrying out the terms of President Harding's proclamation in the rail strike crisis are understood to have gone forward from Washington today. The use of troops is regarded as the next step after the Presidential proclamation that mails and interstate commerce shall not be interfered with.

There is a devout hope on the part of the President and members of the Cabinet that the use of Federal troops will not be necessary, as the situation, they concede, would undoubtedly be aggravated by the appearance of regulars. There was evident today, however, a grim determination on the part of the government officials that the proclamation will be enforced, if not peaceably, then by army.

Deputy U. S. Marshals Kidnaped and Beaten

Denison, Tex., July 13.—J. W. Pike, Sr., said to be an employe of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf Railroad, was shot and seriously wounded and several other men severely beaten in a clash between alleged strikers or strike sympathizers and men said to be imported workmen here early today. Pike is in a hospital with a bullet wound in the stomach and arm.

Dallas, Texas, July 12.—One man was seriously shot and a dozen others, some of them deputy United States marshals on guard at the Missouri, Kansas & Texas shops at Denison, were kidnaped, taken to the woods and beaten by a mob of 1,000 at Denison early today, according to reports to the "Katy" general office here.

Maine Central Not to Take Back Strikers

Portland, Me., July 12.—No man now on strike will be taken back into the service of the Maine Central Railroad or the Portland Terminal Company, unless there is a vacancy at the time he applies for work, and no man will be displaced to give him employment, General Manager Dana C. Douglass announced in a statement received today by employes in the several shop crafts.

They also were notified that they would be given the benefit of rulings and rates of wages as fixed by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

EVICTED FAMILY IN TENT

MRS. REMINGTON AND 4 OF HER CHILDREN.

The family were evicted from their home in Lonsdale, R. I., despite the fact that the father is employed in a mill where there is no strike. There are nine children in the brood and the boy standing next to the mother is blind from cataracts on the eyes.

ASKS ROOSEVELT TO FLY TO BOSTON

Theodore Roosevelt today has in his pocket an invitation to fly to Boston. The "invite" was telegraphed to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy by Governor Cox. Roosevelt is flying from Atlantic City to Newport. Cox asked him to keep on coming this way to inspect the new aviation landing field to be built at East Boston.

FREIGHT SERVICE CUT TO 50 PER CENT.

Cincinnati, O., July 12. — Under the terms of an order issued by officials of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad here, effective today, freight service in Kentucky will be curtailed 50 per cent. The order is directly attributed to the effectiveness of the strike of shopcrafts employes by railway officials.

WARD, FREE ON BAIL, RETURNS TO WORK

New York, July 12.—Walter S. Ward, released from jail on $50,000 bond, but still under indictment for the first degree murder of Clarence Peters, former sailor, went back to work in his bakery office in the Bronx today. He motored down from his New Rochelle home, accompanied by a friend.

PROTEST THE EVICTIONS IN R. I.

Providence, July 12.—The Central Federated Union at a special meeting today unanimously adopted resolutions condemning the wholesale eviction of strikers from tenements owned by the mill operators.

They called upon President Harding to ask the Senate to make an immediate investigation of the New England textile industry.

The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that the mill owners had this time overdone themselves in their bitter war against the strikers. Numerous agencies have come to the aid of the dispossessed strikers. One of these is the Boy Scouts Service Club of Valley Falls.

The club has offered to the local branch of the Textile Workers of America its facilities at the St. Aloysius Camp on Diamond Hill for the evicted strikers.

50 MORE ARE EVICTED.

Employes of the Crompton velvet and corduroy mills at Crompton will hold a meeting today with Superintendent George A. Swanson to advise him that the mill workers unanimously voted not to return to work at the 20 per cent. wage cut ordered by the corporation.

Fifty men, women and children who were forcibly evicted from their homes in tenements owned by the Lonsdale Mills sought temporary shelter in a big tent city which has grown into being on a vacant field in the shadow of the gray walls of the Benedictine monks' monastery, Lonsdale.

Officials of the United Textile Workers hurriedly brought a large consignment of tents down from Boston as soon as the mill operators began their new plan of forcing strikers and their families out of their homes.

UNION ACTS PROMPTLY.

While deputy sheriffs and their aids were ordering helpless families into the street, in the presence of hundreds of angry strikers who gathered on them in silence but emphatically kept the peace, the union officials were making hasty efforts to provide for the luckless persons who were being deprived of shelter.

Frank Morrison, owner of the vacant land, gladly consented to the use of his land. As fast as the tents arrived from Boston, they were brought to the field and put in position by strikers who volunteered for the work. In the adjoining lot are located the buildings of the Benedictine Fathers, the only Benedictine monastery in New England.

Textile strikers here find themselves absolutely caught between the upper and nether mill-stones which the mill-owners are pressing together. The operators own the tenements in which the strikers have lived for years. They are now beginning to order all non-working tenants out of these tenements, giving as their excuse the plea that "these houses are needed for our workers."

The strikers have no recourse whatever but to move out. The courts cannot help them. If they raise their hands to fight their overlords the State troops will be out in a moment.

of various English churches in order to maintain the domination of the exploiting classes."

The Russians don't seem to know that certain things you are not supposed to say.

For instance, the Russian foreign secretary once wrote ingenuously to our government substantially as follows: "You don't like our kind of government and think we ought to be in jail. We, on the other hand, think that Mr. Debs ought to be President of the United States and that Mr. Wilson ought to be in jail. Everybody is entitled to his own opinion."

The Russians will never get anywhere in polite society if they continue that kind of frank talk. It reminds you of the letters that Milton used to write to be signed by Cromwell—disagreeably short and to the point.

Melons sold in New York yesterday for three cents apiece. Extra choice melons from California for five cents apiece to wholesalers. That must be cheerful for the growers, after growing the fruit, paying pickers and packers, buying containers, and paying the present railroad rates.

With immigration laws shutting out labor, and farm help almost impossible to get, the farmer has a cheerful time.

The consumer will feel it later, when conditions show in the prices he pays.

The "Lily Black" organization of Richmond, Virginia, has prepared resolutions asking Henry Ford to run for President, with the assurance that the "Lily Blacks" will support him. That will surprise some lily white Republicans. When Henry Ford runs (and he probably will run some day) he will have the most mixed up party that this country has ever seen, and some old-fashioned politicians will see something new.

Police Officer Who Faced Secret Trial With 5 Comrades

PATROLMAN JOHN M. COLE

Twenty-one witnesses appeared before a police trial board composed of Captains Driscoll, Harriman and Rooney to testify concerning charges which were preferred against six patrolmen by J. Rosenfeld of Lynn and Hyman Ehrenberg of Brighton.

The hearing, held in utter secrecy at police headquarters, lasted for fourteen hours. The fate of the men will be made known today, it is expected, when the trial board captains make their report to Police Commissioner Wilson.

Two of the accused officers were charged with intoxication: the others with assault and battery. They are: Robert N. Adams, Wilfred D. Mulligan, Robert Kavanaugh, John N. Cole, Mark J. Leonard and John J. Good.

According to witnesses at the hearing, where the complainants were represented by the law firm of Hurwitz & Hurwitz, Patrolman Kavanaugh and a civilian were drunk and creating a disturbance in a Roxbury garage. They refused to leave when asked to do so by the proprietor, and a crowd gathered, which included Ehrenberg and Rosenfeld.

COMPASS GONE; "DIVE FOR IT!" SAID JUDGE

Oh it's Hell on the good ship Charley
When the crew gets feelin' tight,
'N' instead of guardin' the compass
Goes forth in the starlit night;
While the skipper snores in the cabin
The crew goes all to the blink,
'N' with compass under an armpit
Falls into the briny brink.
The skipper roused from slumber
Sees things ain't as they ought,
'N' the cops are hurriedly summoned—
'N' they bring the crew into court.
And he stands in the hall of justice
With one foot on the bar,
And he's sentenced to dive for the compass
'N' set things as they w'ar.
—Ballads of the Charley and Willie.

She's tied up at Staples Wharf, Fort Point Channel, and she's a compassless tub. She's the Charley and Willie and a better schooner never slid over a bar. But Elijah—Elijah, Grant, the crew didn't obey orders. He got a shanty on—but let the skipper tell it. Skipper Frank Robbins of the Charley and Willie.

"I told the 'milk-curdlin' maverick," said the skipper in court, "to stand guard over the compass while I hit the bay in the fo'castle. 'Stand guard,' says I, 'on the poop deck!' And daggone his hide if he didn't get so loose-legged he's wandering around the dock in circles trying to find his way by the compass back to the good ship.

"And there standin' by a pluggin' at him as fast as he kin plug is the watchman, John Norton, firing from his trusty rifle and this maverick so dizzy a regiment o' sharp shooters couldn't have hit him with machine guns. 'N' just as I let loose a bellow 'n' come out o' the fo'castle with nothin' on but my whiskers what does he do but take a Brodie into the briny and comes up minus the compass.

"I don't care about the crew," thundered the skipper, "but I navigate no compassless bark."

"Have you tried diving for it?" asked Judge Dowd.

"Me!" bellowed the skipper, surveying his Arbuckle lines. "Hellebelle, if I dived yer Honor, I'd never come up."

The court rapped for order, then faced the crew.

"Would you just soon dive for the skipper's compass?"

"Betcha, Judge, betcha," said the crew, "and I'll have that secondhand clock up in two dives, or I'm a minnow-eating shark."

"Dive then," thundered the court. "The case is dismissed."

THREAT DROVE YOUNG BRIDE TO DEATH

to the beach was chauffeured by Frank Hart of Bridgeport, who told the American the following:

"Mrs. Hotchkiss hailed me at 11 o'clock on the morning of her death. She asked me to take her to Collins' pavilion at Fairfield Beach. She said, 'Drive as fast as you can. I'm in an awful hurry.' She seemed very nervous during the entire time she was in the cab. She was so nervous she stuttered when she talked. I am positive she had an appointment with someone at the beach."

Fifteen-year-old Rosalind O'Neill of Vine street, Bridgeport, was one of those who saw Mrs. Hotchkiss talking with the man on the beach shortly before the body was found. She said the couple were talking in an animated manner, as if they were well acquainted.

Later, the girl said, it appeared as though the man were pleading with Mrs. Hotchkiss. She shook her head several times. He finally stamped his foot angrily and walked away. He was about thirty years old, good looking and well dressed.

Fifteen minutes later Harry Anderson, life guard, found the body. He said:

TONGUE BURNED.

"I was on my way home to dinner when I saw what I thought was a bathing cap in the water. It was then 12:10 o'clock. I went in and found the body floating with the head toward the shore. I dragged the body to land and worked over it to revive her. A small amount of green matter came from her mouth. She had not swallowed water as drowning persons do. I'm sure she must have taken something. Her tongue looked as though it had been burned."

One of the last persons to see Mrs. Hotchkiss alive was 14-year-old Marie Collins, daughter of the proprietor of the pavilion. She said:

"Mrs. Hotchkiss wanted to hire one of the small bathing houses which we have for rent. We do not rent bathing suits to women, and I did not see a bathing suit in her hands when she left. After she had gone I noticed her pocketbook on the desk, where she had left it. I put it in the safe and told my mother about it. Twenty minutes later somebody came in and told us a woman had been found floating in the water. It was Mrs. Hotchkiss.

"When Medical Examiner Donaldson came here Mrs. Hotchkiss' pocketbook was turned over to him. He opened it. One of the things in the pocketbook was a visiting card upon which was written, 'Please give my watch to Mrs. ——, Erie, Pa.' I saw the card, but do not remember the name of the person to whom the watch was to be given.

"Rocky Farrell, another life guard, and I worked over the body for an hour, and then Medical Examiner Donaldson and Dr. Christian took charge. I heard them both say they believed Mrs. Hotchkiss had committed suicide."

In the dead women's wallet was found beside the note requesting that her watch be given to Mrs. Strickland of Erie, Pa., whom her husband said today was a life-long friend of Mrs. Hotchkiss, a card on which was scribbled the number of a room at the Prince George Hotel, New York.

The first statement of Dr. Donaldson was that the woman had committed suicide. Later he said death was due to accidental drowning. To a Boston American reporter he admitted that Mrs. Hotchkiss may have taken poison. Pressed, he said:

"If the coroner desires an autopsy I am willing to make it. But suppose she did take poison and an autopsy should reveal it. What good would it do to establish the information?"

Dr. Christian said:

"There is no doubt that the death of Mrs. Hotchkiss was a well-planned suicide. It was very completely and strategically planned. My conclusions are embodied in a report of a dozen pages that I have made. If I am called upon to testify in court, that is what I will say."

GOULD LOSES MILLIONS BY MARRIAGE

New York, July 12. — George J. Gould, whose marriage in Paris last week to Mrs. Alice Sinclair, an actress, became known here today loses an estate of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, as a result of this second marriage.

This estate, including the Gould town-house at Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street and another residence in East Sixty-fourth street, was reqeuathed to Mr. Gould by his first wife "during his life and until he remarries."

That part of the estate will be divided into equal shares and held in trust for the seven children of the late Mrs. Gould. The town house was recently offered for sale.

MRS. W. E. D. STOKES WINS DOWER RIGHTS TO $2,500,000

DECISION VITAL TO WIVES

Could Not Legally Sign Dower Over to Her Husband, Court Finds

New York, July 12.—A question of vital interest to married women was settled by the decision of Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan that they may not sign their dower rights over to husbands.

Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes.

By this decision dower rights are restored to Helen Elwood Stokes in the forty-eight parcels of property owned by her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, from whom she obtained a separation with temporary alimony of $18,000 a year and a half ago.

She has since sought to have this increased to $75,000 a year, but decision has not yet been rendered.

Restoration of her dower rights give Mrs. Stokes an interest amounting to $2,500,000 in the Stokes property, valued at between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000.

WIFE CHARGED COERCION.

Mrs. Stokes, through her attorney, Samuel Untermyer, held that the surrender of her rights was obtained by fraud, coercion, suppression of facts and undue influence.

Justice Cohalan in his opinion declared that:

"It is an elementary principle that a wife may not release to her husband her right of dower. She may enter into an ante-nuptial agreement covering the release of dower, but she may not release to him directly."

The facts developed at the trial were that when Mr. and Mrs. Stokes were married, he agreed to pay her $60(a month as long as they lived together as husband and wife, but exacted from her an agreement to relinquish her dower right.

AGREEMENT "LOST."

For this purpose he formed a corporation, which he called the Mervyn Realty Company, of which he was the sole stockholder. The deeds which he says Mrs. Stokes signed, conveyed her interest in the property to this corporation.

Two other important facts were presented to the court:

1—That Mrs. Stokes was not represented by an attorney when she signed the agreement and executed the deeds.

2—That though Mr. Stokes claimed such an agreement existed, he was unable to produce it in court.

STORY IMPROBABLE.

Mr. Stokes declared the agreement was lost. As to this Justice Cohalan held:

"When one considers the defendant's story of his desire to protect himself from any dower claim under his second marriage, it seems improbable if there was such an agreement, the defendant did not keep it safely. Practically the sole testimony covering this essential point was given by the defendant himself.

"The plaintiff unequivocally denies that she ever signed the alleged agreement. She says there was some talk before the marriage of his giving her a $500 allowance, but this alone does not tend to sustain the defendant's contention. It might well be that upon the conversation the defendant built his story of the ante-nuptial agreement.

A Life-Prolonging Way to Live—And Why:

If you want to know what it is to really live, select a home or homesite in some well located suburb such as is offered in The American's "Real Estate" columns day after day.

After you have breathed clean, fresh air into your lungs for a while, and know what it is to feel the comfort of home ownership, you will regret the time wasted in other people's houses.

The choicest properties are listed in The American because its readers are the greediest, ablest real estate buyers in Boston.

More than that, they are home loving people — and are particularly appealed to by any home proposition.

The way to get in touch with real estate opportunities is to watch the offerings closely each day in

RAYMOND HILLIER

Patrolman Fred Mercer of the Metropolitan Park Police dived into the front ranks of the hero class when he rescued two eight-year-old boys from drowning in the Charles River, while hundreds of persons who lined the banks cheered his bravery.

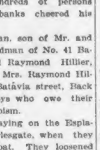
David Friedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Friedman of No. 41 Batavia street and Raymond Hillier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hiller of No. 28 Batavia street, Back Bay, are the boys who owe their lives to his heroism.

They were playing on the Esplanade, near Charlesgate, when they found a row boat. They loosened the mooring, stepped in and shoved off.

Patrolman Mercer saw the boys and commenced to pull over towards them. Young Hillier jumped into the water, capsizing the boat and Friedman was also thrown into the river.

RAPS HARVARD OVER DEGREE TO HARDING

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred by Harvard on W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, "to help Wall street in its effort to get him reappointed governor."



W. P. G. Harding

In making this charge, Senator Heflin (Dem.) of Alabama, said:

"Horatius at the bridge and Leonidas at Thermopylae never displayed such grim boldness and reckless daring, as did the faculty of Harvard University, when, in defiance of the pride and interest of her honored living, and with utter disregard for the memory of her illustrious dead, they conferred the degree of LL.D. on W. P. G. Harding.

"We cannot escape the conclusion that it was deemed advisable to secure the Harding degree for him to help Wall street in its efforts to reappoint him governor of the Federal Reserve Board. Verily, degrees are now in greater abundance at Harvard than ever before, and those in control of them far more careless and indifferent as to their disposition than ever were their illustrious predecessors."

WOMAN IN NEWPORT-NEW YORK AIR TRIP

New York, July 12.—It took Mrs. J. Norman Der Whitehouse just one hour and twenty minutes to fly to New York from Newport. Here's the first flight which a New York woman of society has made between this city and Newport, and it led to the prediction that before many months the airplane will have supplanted the automobile and the motor-boat in popularity as a means of getting about during the Summer.

STATLER WILL BUILD THAT BIG HOTEL

E. M. Statler, the hotel man, definitely announced today that a $9,000,000 hotel would be erected in Park Square on the site of the old Boston & Providence railroad.

The hotel will have 1,100 rooms, nine stories high, with sample rooms the entire length of the top floor. A swimming pool, 20 by 60 feet, together with large Turkish baths in the basement, will be but one of the many features of the new enterprise.

The first payment on the land was made today, Mr. Statler said, to Arthur E. Russell, vice-president of the New Haven Railroad. The Statler Company desired to obtain the Park Square Theatre property, so that the hotel could take in the entire space, but was unable to do so.

The hotel will be built directly behind the theatre, with entrances on St. James avenue and Arlington street.

Work will be started within sixty days. Architects are George B. Post & Sons of New York. The hotel will occupy a space of about 40,000 square feet of land.

PARADE MARKS ORANGEMEN'S DAY HERE

Today was Orangemen's Day in Boston, and the country also.

The 232nd anniversary of the "Battle of the Boyne" was celebrated by the Royal Orange Institution of the United States. In Boston the event was marked with a parade and outing, members of the New England branch of the order holding a basket picnic and program of sports at the Caledonia Grove on the Charles River, West Roxbury.

There were more than 1,000 persons in attendance, the parade preceding the picnic through downtown street creating a stir. In line were uniformed officers, the Chelsea Orange brass band, the Ulster Volunteers and a fife and drum corps.

In the auditorium at the grove following the luncheon these speakers delivered addresses: Rev. S. Gordon Tucker, supreme grand chaplain; Dr. William E. McDougall, assistant supreme grand chaplain; Rev. Thomas E. Leyden, Rev. Charles Johnson and Dr. Alexander Martin of Central Falls, R. I.

McCALL NAMED TRUSTEE

Former Governor Samuel W. McCall was today appointed a public trustee of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway by Governor Cox.

He will succeed Homer Loring, chairman of the trustees, whose resignation caused a surprise when announced today by Governor Cox.

Loring said he has completed the task he undertook, "during which time the physical property has been rehabilitated, fares have been reduced and substantial progress made toward re-established credit. I feel that the railway no longer requires my attention and so request your permission to retire."

Trustee Arthur G. Wadleigh of Lynn will be chairman of the board.

Mr. McCall was Governor when the Elevated and the old Bay State were placed under public control.

KIDNAPED CHILD IS SOUGHT BY GYPSY

Following a search of Boston and surrounding towns, Sterro Wannis, a gypsy, has appealed to the police to aid him in locating his five-year-old daughter, Ann. The child was kidnaped last month as a result of a feud which lasted five years. An auto truck driven up to the camp at which Wannis was stopping at someone took the child and then drove rapidly away.

BATCHELDER AND SNYDER OUTING

F. S. Snyder, president of the Batchelder & Snyder Company and of the Chamber of Commerce, greeted some employees of the Batchelder & Snyder Company at their annual outing at Riverside on Tuesday and proceeded to fall in with the enthusiasts in a day of fun.

Swimming, dancing and racing were among the varied pleasures. An entertainment and dance concluded the day's sport. Heading the committee in charge were Jack Buxbaum, C. J. Ramsdell, T. J. Flood, A. M. Honeywell, H. A. Mock and F. G. Williams.

Special cars and numberless automobiles brought the Batchelder & Snyder forces and their families to the picnic grounds.

Letters Reveal Dead Student Sought an Ideal From Many Types of Women

De Flemister Dreamed of Some Day Finding Perfect Mate; Surrounded by Photos and Notes of More Than Score Who Protested Their Love for Him

In his room in the boarding house at No. 94 West Newton street, from which he fell to his death, were found proofs of his quest.

Now that he is dead, his voice is stilled. He cannot tell the story.

But there were letters. Scores of letters, tumbled about the room, covered with the ashes of cigarettes smoked in revery; reminiscences of Florence, who was blonde; of "Muddy," who always signed herself "Your Own Baby"; of Molly and Dolly and Daisy and May.

SOUGHT IDEAL IN FRANCE.

As an aviator in the American army, he sought his ideal girl in France. As a student at the Lasky Commercial College, he sought her here in Boston

Muddy's Own Little Son: Suppose you are mad at your poor little "Muddy" again because she was not here when you called yesterday afternoon. I went to town to buy my new suit. I bought a little peach and a nice hat too. Will meet you Monday night sure and we will do something, any thing. I don't care. But please don't be cross at your little "Muddy," dear. You don't know how much I apreciate your staying with your Muddy instead of going away. I have tried to get you several times this afternoon and twice old Dean has answered and once old Sally so I simply hung up and didn't say anything at all. Dick wants me to go to work for him this Summer and I told him I would not go so he is sore at me too now. I should worry. As long as I have you dear, I don't give a cuss for any of them. Now tell me I am full of fancy as you always do, dear, but I'm not dear, I simply am just getting around to do as I wish to do. Everything is about over between Russel and I. Just a few finishing touches and hoops my dear—Know what I mean. Well, dear, will meet you at Park Street subway about 8 p. m. Monday evening without fail. Believe me to be always.

YOUR OWN BABY MUDDY.

1—2—3—Honest and true.

WANTED FIVE DOLLARS.

Monday evening, 8 p. m.

My Little "Son": Will be in to see you Wednesday evening 6:30 at Copley. Was coming in tonight dear, but I am too tired and it makes me so cross because I can's get a job. Listen dear, I want you to have $5 for your Muddy Wednesday evening; $2 for my watch and $3 for me. Am letting you know ahead of time so you can get it as you asked me to do once before. So on time dear won't you, and I'll wait at Copley.

Oceans of love and 1—2—3.

YOUR OWN BABY MUDDY.

MUST QUIT DRINKING.

Dear Flemie Am returning letter as I promised and because I meant what I said in it. But I have told you you must quit drinking and acting the way you have been. You have promised me many times you would and haven't. So until I see that you keep a promise and be a man I won't see you. When you have done these things as you should I will be again

YOUR OWN LITTLE MUDDY.

KITTY ANYONE YOU WANT.

P. S.—Love to you, dear, and do succeed and be what you should be. Please excuse haste and poor writing.

Dear Flemie: Your little Muddie is sick today. Don't feel good at all. I guess you were really glad to see your Muddy weren't you? I hope you soon get settled so you won't have to be moving around all the time. Listen, Flemie, I want you to get Muddy some silk stockings, good ones, black and white ones, size 8½. Also dear if you don't mind, instead of going out to dinner Mon. eve, let's stay at 201 or wherever you will be and you can get some "refreshments" and cigarettes, and we can have a quiet little time cause little Mary is awfully sick and I want to be as quiet as possible. Will see you Monday eve dear. Oceans of love,

YOUR BABY.

GOES TO WORK.

Newton, Mass., June 14-17.

My Dear Little Flemie: Have been unable to call you dear, as I have been busy, but after I get used to the work here it will be better and I can get along O. K. and will see you more often, if you want to see me. Lately I think it does not make much difference to you whether I do or not and I also think you have someone you love better than Muddy. If so tell me dear, I won't be cross with you. In the meantime believe me to be

PROTESTS HER LOVE.

Maine, July 18, 1920.

Dearest Payne: Have received your letter and was glad to hear from you. How is every one at home? Have you seen Florens? When you write to me will you send me her address as I lost the one I had.

Well, this is quite a nice place here dear. I like it very much for a rest. I was at a dance last night here. You ought to see them dance here they are so funny you could laugh your head off at them.

What did you say about being good and keeping away from the men? They don't worry me the least bit. Why should even bother me when I have you to think of all the time.

Well, dear, I just wrote a letter to your rival Jasper, and one to my mother. I hope you have that fact ready for me when I come home. How is the rest of the gang? I must close now.

With all my love and lots of kisses,

ETHEL.

MET AT YOUNG'S HOTEL.

My Dear Flemie & My Little Son: —Am just over crying and have calmed myself enough to write to you. Suppose you will think I am the meanest girl that ever lived but it isn't my fault dear. Have tried to get in to see you tonight. My mother found one of your letters which I had hidden under the cover of my dresser and she thought you had left Boston. When she found out you were still here—good night. She said everything she could think of to me. She wrote to Russell and told him that I was seeing you all the time, etc. But don't worry, Flemie, dear, I am the only one that knows where you are staying, and believe me I'm glad you moved. Listen, dear, if you don't have to work tomorrow morning (Sat.) I'll meet you at Young's Hotel just alone——

(This letter is incomplete).

SORRY AT MEETING HIM.

Boston, June 11, 1917.

Dear Flemmie: Suppose you think I have vanished or something almost the same, but I really haven't. I am all O. K., only very busy. Have succeeded in getting a fine position and a high class one too. Am getting awfully tired of staying at home though and am looking for a room in town. Hope things are going well at the club and hope you are all right. Have missed you often but do not know just what to do in regard to you. I do not think you love me in the right way dear, and until I do I don't know just what to do about you. Why is it we had to meet each other anyway? I will meet you Thursday night if I can. If I can't I'll telephone you. I'll meet you at Copley at 8:30.

Oceans of love,

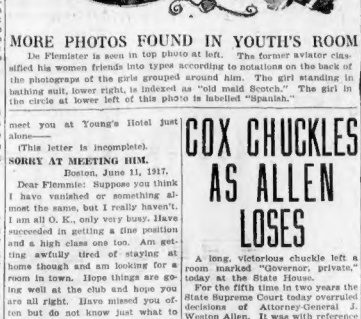
MUDDY.

1-2-3—Know what I mean?

Dear Flemie: By the time this reaches you I may be miles away. I have fully decided that you no longer love me or that any one else does, so I am going away to seek new friends; am leaving Monday night sure. It has taken me a long time to decide to go, but there is nothing around here for me. All you and the rest think about is your own self—not of me. I know you have been kind to me at times, but so have a lot more, but what I want is different to that. I want kindness all the time, no matter what I do or what may happen, so I am going to look for it and I feel sure that I will find it although it may be a long distance from here. Always believe me to be, no matter where you are or where I am.

Your own

"Baby Muddy."



MORE PHOTOS FOUND IN YOUTH'S ROOM

DE VALERA BACK WITH CHIEFS IN DUBLIN

Belfast, July 12 (By the Associated Press).—Eamon de Valera, the Republican leader, is in Dublin now, and today visited the Republican offices in Suffolk street, a Dublin dispatch states. It is understood that the Free State authorities have no intention of interfering with his movements, the message adds.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Dublin, July 12.—Resistance of the Republican irregulars in Southern Ireland has stiffened and the problem of dispersing them by Free State troops has become a more serious one.

The Rebels hold the railroad junction at Malloy, dominating rail communication from Cork and Waterford. Regulars planned a flanking movement from Ballybrophy, but scouts reported that the irregulars were strongly entrenched so it was decided to await reinforcements. The reinforcements are already on their way from Dublin.

Irregulars are reported to be concentrating in Tipperary under direction of Austin Stack, who escaped from Dublin with Eamonn de Valera, after the last of the Rebel strongholds in this city fell.

Bands of irregulars are marauding in the northern part of County Kerry. In a skirmish between Free State and irregulars near Duncrans, Captain Browne, of the Free State forces, was wounded. This city continues quiet.

There is no confirmation as yet of the report that the rebels at Cork had proclaimed a republic. Free State troops gained a victory at Wexford without firing a shot.

Irish Republic Rumor Remains Unconfirmed

Dublin, July 13. (By the Associated Press).—A rumor that an Irish Republic has been proclaimed at Cork is printed by several of today's newspapers under Belfast datelines. It is not confirmed.

Isolation of southwest Ireland is practically complete. Republicans and Free Staters are imposing censorship, so that official statements comprise almost the only information reaching here.

BRIDAL COUPLE AND 3 OTHERS DIE IN CRASH

Greenville, Pa., July 12.—Five persons were killed today when two fast Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad crushed into an automobile. John Schultz, Edith Schultz, Florence Schultz and John Hamor were killed instantly. Mrs. Edith Schultz, wife of John Schultz, died a short time afterward.

The party was en route from Altoona to Erie, Pa., where Edith Schultz was to be married to Floyd Hamor.

The car, travelling at a fair rate of speed, was just upon the crossing when two engines came dashing along. There was no time to stop and the heavy freight locomotives plowed through the automobile, scattering its occupants along the roadside.

COX CHUCKLES AS ALLEN LOSES

A long, victorious chuckle left a room marked "Governor, private," today at the State House.

For the fifth time in two years the State Supreme Court today overruled decisions of Attorney-General J. Weston Allen. It was with reference to the widow of the late Henry D. Coolidge of Concord, for thirty-five years clerk of the Senate being paid salary for his unexpired term of office. He died in February. The Legislature voted payment of the money to the widow. The Attorney-General ruled it could not lawfully be done, as the money must represent services rendered, and the widow was rendering the State no service.

Today the Supreme Court overruled the Attorney-General saying, "The State can spend money if it likes in appreciation of a man's past services."

When one recalls that a bit of political rivalry exists between the ambitious Attorney-General and the gentleman who occupies the office marked "Governor, private," one can quite understand the reason for the chuckle.

SUN CAPTURES 2 CHINESE FORTS

Canton, China, July 12.—Sun Yat Sen today captured the Macao forts two miles from Canton, and as a result occupies strong positions dominating the city with his fleet. Sympathy for Sun Yat's cause threatens to bring about a general strike in Canton. The electric light plant employes walked out, leaving the city in darkness.

LOGAN OR FOOTE FOR MAJOR-GENERAL

Governor Cox said today that he would not select a major-general for the new division of National Guard troops which is planned for Massachusetts until the peace strength of 12,000 had been recruited.

He said there are approximately 8,300 men in the federalized militia in this Commonwealth. These will be increased until the number required for a peace time division has been realized.

"It will then be high time to select a candidate for division commander," added the Governor.

In military circles it was thought that the Bay State Militia Division would be complete within five or six weeks.

The candidates most prominently mentioned today for the new berth of major-general were Brigadier-General Edward L. Logan and Colonel Alfred F. Foote.

The impression was reported to have reached the Governor's office that General Logan and Colonel Foote's friends had started a campaign for their appointment.

19 PATROLMEN, 4 SERGEANTS PROMOTED

Four police sergeants have been promoted to lieutenants and nineteen patrolmen have been elevated to sergeants. Three lieutenants and nine sergeants have been transferred to new police stations.

Announcement of the promotions was contained in a general order issued by Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. The order becomes effective this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock.

Among the successful patrolmen who were named sergeants are Bartholomew D. Winn, Eugene G. Wallingford, John J. Manning and George E. Keyes who have been doing detective work as special officers. Patrolmen Thomas N. Trainor and Patrick J. Flaherty, former sergeants, are restored to rank.

The promotions as read at roll call are as follows:

Promoted from the grade of sergeant to lieutenant: John F. Lyons of Division 6, assigned to Division 1; John McGrath of Division 7, assigned to superintendent's office; Joseph McKinnon of Division 1, assigned to Division 18; Dana W. Fisher of Division 16, assigned to Division 17.

'Keep Looking Up,' Says Wanamaker on 83d Birthday

Philadelphia, July 12.—"Never look down, look up; never look backward, look forward; do not do much looking in, look out!"

Such was the utterance of John Wanamaker when he gave his secret of success while celebrating his eighty-third birthday anniversary.

The famous merchant's desk was piled high with flowers and messages and he received scores of callers, among them Mayor Moore and a Sunday school class.

Mr. Wanamaker had a word of optimism for every one who called.

NEW YORK CENTRAL GETS "BIG FOUR"

Washington, July 12.—The New York Central Railroad was authorized by an Interstate Commerce Commission order today to complete its control of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad by purchasing all of the outstanding preferred and common stock issues.

CITY TRIED TO COLLECT WATER TAXES TWICE

Drs. Elizabeth T. and Alice M. Gray, sisters and physicians, of No. 148 Warren street, Roxbury, who were threatened with having their water supply shut off unless they paid the bills, asserted today that they had not only paid their water taxes for which they hold receipts, but had been charged an exorbitant rate as well.

Dr. Alice M. Gray declared that they did not wish to be interviewed until City Hall officials had been given sufficient time to adjust the matter which was revealed by the investigation of grave irregularities in the collection of tax bills at City Hall.

Dr. Gray said she and her sister had noted irregularities in their water bills for two years. They were excessive, she said, because she could not possibly have used the amount of water the city charged them.

The woman physician further declared that soon after the excessive water bills were received, they engaged a plumber who went over the water system of their home without finding leaks.

TAKES FRIENDS HOME, THEY TAKE BONDS

Robert H. Edgar took a couple of strangers to his home at No. 31 Armandine street, Mattapan, and entertained them.

Today his wife is mourning the loss of $4,000 worth of Liberty bonds, which she believes her husband's friends stole while in the house. Police are seeking the men.

According to Mrs. Edgar, her husband met the men on Hogan Bridge, and entertained them in the lower part of the house. She was upstairs.

"I only got a good looke at one of them," she said. "The other man my husband addressed as 'Dutch.'"

Edgar, police say, told the man of his wife having bonds worth the $4,000 hidden in a bureau drawer upstairs. There followed a jovial evening, a friendly parting, and then the Edgars discovered the bonds had vanished.

Father Swaps His Son to Gypsies for Old Horse

By International News Service.

Montreal, July 12.—The Attorney-General's department is investigating an amusing case of a farmer in L'Islet, a small hamlet, who traded his boy of nine to gypsies for an old horse.

Discovery of the swap was made by an uncle, and a rescue party recovered the boy.

The father's only defence was:

"Isn't the kid mine? I can do with him as I please."

HEBREW ACTORS PLANNING STRIKE

New York, July 12.—A general strike of Hebrew actors in all Jewish theatres in the Metropolitan District and vicinity is being planned as a result of the proposals of the Hebrew theatre managers for wage reductions ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

No agreement was reached at a conference last week between the managers and the actors' union, and a further attempt will be made next week to reach an understanding.

WOMAN BARS IDLE GIRLS AS BRIDES

By GRACE DesCHAMPS.

It's a job FIRST—then a husband!

That's the latest dope, girls and it comes from one of your own sex.

Katherine W. Dowling.

If you want to prove your capacity for landing a home (husband) indefinitely go out and get a job.

Show the world that you can bring home the li'l ol' pay envelope—the rest is easy.

Miss Katherine W. Dowling, who aspires to the House of Representative from Roxbury, says so.

Not only that, but it's going to be a law in New York! No job, no husband; at least it will be when Dr. Anna Hochfelder, a candidate for the State Senate, lands in office and sets the necessary legislation in motion.

BARS ALTAR TO IDLE.

Dr. Hochfelder believes that every girl should first prove herself capable of supporting herself and her children, in the event of her husband's death. To do this she should be a skilled worker of some sort.

Well, Miss Dowling goes a bit farther. Here's what she thinks of the idle girl who lacks ambition or ability to hold down a job.

"Such a girl should not be permitted to marry for a very obvious reason: She is a mental liability, and no person without mentality should marry, for the benefit of the future generation.

"There is nothing that gives a girl the proper perspective for marriage as does earning a living. Besides proving that she is an asset to society and can take her own out of the world, she is getting a softening influence that she would not obtain at home."

"Softening"—sounds inconsistent, doesn't it? But Miss Dowling explains:

"By softening, I mean that one gets sympathy—sympathy for the other fellow—whether it be her associate in business or the individual in some other stratum of society. The girl who spends her life sheltered in her home has ideas about the world and the rest of society that are generally incorrect.

"She sees things very differently—it tempers her—to mingle with the crowd and pit her skill and worth against theirs. Certainly, every girl should first prove herself able to hold a position before she is permitted to marry.

"Here's another thing: the girl who knows the trials an difficulties attendant upon earning a living develops a sympathy for her toiling husband that means half the battle in making a success of married life.

"She knows how to sympathize with her husband when he comes home tired and discouraged. She's been there herself, and she can give him consolation and understanding."

ALWAYS A HOMEMAKER.

And all this stuff about the modern girl's home-making instinct being submerged or eradicated by being forced to earn a living, is simply tommyrot. Miss Dowling says this, too.

"Isn't that absurd!" sniffs the lady politician. "Why, home-making is just as much an instinct with a woman as any other natural characteristic. All the job holding in the world can't change nature. A girl may not have the slightest idea about home-making but when she gets married and the responsibility falls upon her that dormant instinct asserts itself and the girl rises to the occasion quite easily."

"Women and girls are spending too much time at the movies. Mind, I don't say they shouldn't go—but they go too much. If they'd spend a little time familiarizing themselves with the important things going on about them, with the legislation that affects them and their homes, their troubles would be considerably less.

GIRL HIS RIVAL, SAYS HUSBAND, SUING WIFE

Worcester, July 12.—Elwin Hatch and his wife are joint owners of the Royal Rest Sanitarium at No. 20 Kind street. In is a quiet place, full of customers, with rest for everybody but Hatch, he said in Superior Court, where he is seeking eternal rest from Mrs. Hatch.

Hatch said his wife got a violent crush on him, endeavoring to crisis him with dishes, the mop, tin pans and other parts of the sanitarium's kitchen. He said it got so unrestful for him he went to Canada for a rest.

Hatch, who is a druggist, blamed it beautiful girl patient for his marital troubles. "My wife fell in love with her," he said.

REPORT BIG GOLD STRIKE IN COLORADO

Colorado Springs, Col., July 12.—Gold ore that will assay as high as $20,000 a ton has been struck in the 24,000-foot level of the Portland mine at Victor, Col., according to Joseph W. Ady, Jr., managing director of the Portland Gold Mining Company, here today.

ELECTRICITY can be generated and delivered to manufacturers by the Edison Company at a lower cost than they can make it, because of the larger volume and extent of the Company's business, and at a lower cost than to retail customers because of the comparatively smaller cost of distribution which large customers impose.

Customers taking Edison Service, therefore, not only have lower manufacturing costs, but can devote all their attention to enlarging their own business.

MURDER PROBE OF BREWSTER CALLED

A special session of the Middlesex County Grand Jury will meet at East Cambridge next Tuesday morning to make a complete investigation of the mysterious circumstances which surround the murder of Ralph W. Brewster, Boston and Maine railroad station agent at Winchester.

Brewster was shot to death while on duty more than two months ago.

Private Jack Lawhorne of the U. S. Marine Corps., who has been held in the Charlestown Navy Yard prison, will be one of the principal figures in the investigation.

BROTHER OF JACK DE SAULLES REWEDS

New York, July 12.—Charles A. H. De Saulles, the famous Yale athlete and elder brother of "Jack" De Saulles, who was murdered by his wife, has been divorced and has remarried. Confirmation of the divorce and remarriage was obtained from Mrs. Louise Herch De Saulles. She was seen at her home in Garden City, L. I., where she makes her home with her two sons. According to her information, her husband married the corespondent named in her suit a few days after the decree was granted, and is at present living with his new wife at Long Beach.

YOUNG MILLIONAIRE DIES IN CYCLE CRASH

Utica, N. Y., July 12.—Frederick B. Rutter, twenty-three years old, died today from an injury received when the motorcar he was driving a few miles north of the city went into the ditch. To an already large fortune which Rutter possessed was added a few months ago considerably over a million dollars left him by an uncle. He was single and is survived by his mother.

TWO DOOMED MEN DENIED CLEMENCY

Albany, N. Y., July 12.—Saito Tuzo and Peter Nunziato, awaiting execution at Sing Sing prison, have been denied clemency by Governor Miller, it was announced at the executive chamber today. Tuzo was convicted of the slaying of a Japanese compatriot, Nitaro Yasahara, in New York, last February. Nunziato was found guilty of the murder of Ivr. Winifred Kotlox, a Jewish theologian, in Queens County, in February, 1921. Both defendants have been examined by alienits and pronounced sane.

Flapper'll Havta Dodge Dancing; Her Nose Is on Blink

Character Lady Says Everybody Chooses Wrong in Life, With 1,400 Vocations to Pick From.

By THE FLAPPER

Winifred Webster Harlow, the character lady who can tell at a glance whether you were born to be a piano tuner or a tight rope walker, wrinkled her brow and narrowed her eyes as I crashed into her studio on Boylston street.

"Low bridge," she said, thoughtfully.

"Where!" I said, ducking my head.

"Your nose," said the character lady. "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

"A Spanish dancer," I told her. "Or a great actress."

"That's what I thought," said Mrs. Harlow. "Everybody wants to do something they're not fitted for. It's an epidemic. There're 1,400 vocations to choose from and everybody chooses wrong. At least 80 per cent. do. That's statistics."

CAN'T DANCE ON NOSE.

"But why can't I be a Spanish dancer!" I persisted.

"Because of your nose," she answered.

"But I wouldn't dance on my nose," I told her. "You're thinkin' of Egyptian dancers."

"And your eyes, too," the analyst continued.

"They're not wide-open enough for an actress. An actress must have open eyes, arched brows, a tilted nose and a short upper lip. A lot of bad actresses on the stage have every symptom of successful nursemaids, telephone operators or school teachers. And it works the other way round, too."

"But, when you decide that a lazy ash-man would be the owl's hoot as a civil engineer, how do you start to unscramble him?" I wanted to know.

GLOVE-FIT VOCATIONS.

"I study his features, the shape of his head and his general build," said the analyst. "Then I figure out the type of vocation that will come nearest to being a glove-fit."

"But how, f'r'instance could a brick layer with eight kids suddenly decide to quit slinging plaster and start in to practice the xylophone for a living?"

"He can't," sighed Mrs. Harlow. "And more's the pity. But we can figure out something a little nearer the ideal occupation for him than brick-laying.

"One of my students is so dumb about figures he thinks square root is a vegetable, Yet he's spent the better part of his life adding up columns of figures. And he's hated it. He used to dream that all the nines and sevens and twos and sixes were dancing on his chest at night, shooting little arrows into his brain.

FIGURES TO FIGURES.

"One day he came to me and I said, 'Why weren't you a surgeon?'

"'That's funny,' he said. 'I always kinda wanted to be. But now it's too late. I can't spare six years to learn.'

"So we figured it out and finally decided to make him an osteopath. It doesn't take as long to learn and it's a lot nearer what he ought to be than what he's doing now."

"I can't see much difference," I said. "From figures to figures—"

"An' then there was another case—"

"Listen," I interrupted. "Something's worrying me."

"Yes?" she said.

"Here's what I wants know," I said. "How'd you ever find out that you had just the right face for being a character-analyst? Maybe you ought to be an opera singer."

"I don't know," pondered the character lady. "I never thought of that."

Aw gee an' posh, this pitcha wouldn been the chicken's pin feathers if I hadden a slipped an' bust the plate. I tried to put it together, but I don't know whether you can tell it's Winifred Webster Harlow and John the Baptist or I ain. John is the name of the bronze bust she uses to explain heads with.

REFORMER GETS THREAT OF TAR AND FEATHERS

Threats of tar and feathers because of his campaign for the observance of the Sunday laws have been made against the Rev. Dr. M. D. Kneeland, secretary of the Lord's Day League, he declared. Dr. Kneeland has been particularly active of late in the fight to suppress collections of money at the Sunday baseball games in Cambridge.

Rev. Kneeland.

"I have been threatened with tar and feathers if I ever put in appearance at Holyoke and many other cities," Dr. Kneeland said today. "But these threats will not lessen my efforts to have communities respect the Sunday laws.

"Only a short time ago in Cambridge the leader of a baseball nine raised his fist to my face and threatened to knock 'my block off' for my insistence on observances of the Sunday laws in that city.

"I'm not afraid of fists or tar and feathers when I am trying to have Sunday laws put into execution," continued the secretary. "My only aim is to preserve the sanctity of the Lord's Day and prevent it from being entirely secularized. If I did not with others put up this fight for Sunday laws why after a time every day in the week would be a working day and there would be no day of rest.

"There are many who do not care anything about the sanctity of Sunday. They want to make money. They are crazy over it. They will do everything for it. I am fighting the battles of justice and many do not see it."

SAYS AMERICAN LEADS LONDON BOLSHEVISTS

Dr. A. N. Wilson, librarian of Clark University, Worcester, was a passenger on the Winifredian which arrived today from Liverpool. Dr. Wilson, who speaks Russian fluently, attended meetings of Bolsheviists in London, while visiting in that city, and said that the most rabid of the Bolsheviks, and the most prominent among them was a Seattle man.

The London authorities, he said, paid little or no attention to the meetings, or to Bolshevik plans to upset the British monarchy. Dr. Wilson found that labor and capital are getting along much more comfortably in England than in the United States.

Other prominent educators on board were Rev. Kirksopp Lake, professor of Church History and Theology at Hazvard, and Dr. O. W. Lawkin, assistant professor of Fine Arts at the same institution.

Dr. J. B. Blake surgeon at the City Hospital, returned from a visit to his wife in France. Mrs. Blake is convalescing there from a long illness.

Gordon Haider of Chicago, a twenty-seven-year-old war veteran who has been working in a London restaurant, was a stowaway on the Winifredian. He told immigration inspectors that he "wanted to get bac kto the loop." He was released and hopped the first west-bound freight out of the Boston & Albany yards.

In addition to thirty-six cabin passengers and a stowaway the liner brought back thirty-one cattlemen.

NEW FRUIT SHIPS BIGGEST OF KIND

Captain Asa Dawson, marine manager for the United Fruit Company, who has just returned from Europe, announced today that he had placed contracts for the building of three modern passenger and freight ships for the company's trade between Boston and the tropics.

The ships will be equipped with four Diesel electric engines developing 750 horsepower each, the compactness of which will give the ships 150,000 cubic feet o fcargo space, as compared with 118,000 feet in ships of the same size using reciprocating steam engines. The fuel consumption will be about one-third of that of steam engines developing the same speed.

The ships will be equipped with modern refrigerating apparatus to preserve cargoes and cool the cabins. They will be built by Cammell, Laird + Company at Birkenhead, England.

U. S. HELPS MARK HEROES' GRAVES

Applications for headstones for World War veterans in private cemeteries, not national or cemeteries over seas, should be sent to the Intermediate Depot, Q. M. Army Base, South Boston.

Upon request of any one having a veteran buried in any cemetery in this country application blanks will be sent.

The headstone for World War veterans is made of American white marble quarried at Lee, Mass., forty-two inches long, four inches thick, thirteen inches wide.

BOSTON AMERICAN

"Over the Hill to the Poorhouse"

-do you remember that wonderful poem?

DO you remember that the whole trouble with the poor mother was the fact that the father was improvident; did not save his money; did not put aside something for their old age?

You Are Young Now, But When You Are 65, WHERE WILL YOU BE?

Here is a plan endorsed by some of the biggest banks in America—a plan in book form, that anybody can use, that absolutely saves 10c out of every dollar that you earn, if you use it. The use of this plan is your Declaration of Independence now, and for your old age. It means that you will have something to show for your hard work.

It means that housewives won't have to go to their husbands for an extra $5.00 or $10.00 when they need it.

It means that the young single boys and girls working for their living will have more to show for their work than a good time, something to eat, and a place to sleep.

Get This Plan Book Today

It means that for the dollar you pay for it at any of the dealers listed here (there is one right in your neighborhood)—see list below; it means that having this book and using it will pay you back, if you only make $12 a week, $1.20 a week, or $62.40 a year, for that single dollar invested in this book today. Never before has 100 cents meant as much to you as the dollar that you pay for this plan will mean! Ask any Savings Banker about this. Ask your boss—ask any newspaper editor!!

Don't go "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse" when you can have a future of comfort by using a little common sense and this simple, effective plan, the only one of its kind. Get it today.

This is not merely a book—it is a complete PLAN

It is not a course in accountancy. It is a common sense teaching of real, PRACTICAL thrift in a way that any one who can read plain English and write with a lead pencil can so plan the use of their INcome and OUTgo as to be sure of getting more out of their earnings than a mere place to sleep and something to eat.

GERMANY ASKS DELAY TO BUY U. S. WHEAT

Paris, July 12 (By the Associated Press).—The German representatives today submitted to the reparations commission a formal note requesting a moratorium on reparations payments for the remainder of the present year. The note stated that the 331,000,000 gold marks due on Saturday were available if the commission insisted upon this payment, but recommended that it also be waived. The note will be considered by the commission at once.

The German request did not specify an extension of the moratorium throughout the next two years, as had been forecast in some quarters, but urged the commission to consider Germany's condition, and make public as soon as possible a complete plan for her relief.

WILL DO AS ORDERED.

Germany will do anything the commission asks, but it places the responsibility upon the commission. If the July payment is made, they argue, then the mark will drop still further, with possible accentuation of the serious economic and political conditions in Germany.

The two German representatives said to the correspondent today, that although the Rathenau assassination was a large factor in precipitating the present crisis, it has reacted heavily against the Monarchists.

"We are not afraid of being assassin, and the Republic is in no danger," they affirmed in substance. "The trouble in Germany is a sort of demoralization and desperation among classes, once well-to-do."

BUYING WHEAT.

The reason for the request for delay on the July payment is that Germany is buying wheat to last until the October harvest.

Wheat from the United States for this purpose is now on the sea, it is explained, and if the July payments were made there would not be enough foreign money in the treasury to meet the wheat bill. It is claimed, so that the German mark would be further depreciated by new purchases of foreign currency or bills.

ACQUIT MOHANI IN WAR INCITING CASE

Ahmedabad, British India, July 12.—Hazrat Mohani, President of the All-India Moslem League, has been acquitted by the high court on a charge of inciting war.

Mohani was sentenced to two years' imprisonment on May 4 for sedition after the judge had refused to accept a unanimous verdict of not guilty rendered by a jury which included five Indians. In a speech before the All-India Moslem League last December he was declared to have advocated guerilla warfare to bring about the establishment of a republic, which would be called the United States of India.

ELKS' 1923 CONCLAVE MAY BE IN BOSTON

The Elks may hold their 1923 convention in Boston. Mayor Curley has extended an invitation to the "Bills" now gathered at Atlantic City and it is generally believed that the invitation will be accepted. J. Edgar Masters of Charleroi, Pa., has been unanimously elected grand exalted ruler. He was nominated by former Governor Tanner of Pennsylvania. Elks in Boston are enthusiastic over the proposal of the grand lodge to provide an athletic field for each lodge.

Smart Frocks Worn by Mrs. Whitman Admired by Society, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

"I WONDER what Adelaide is wearing today," or "My dear, you simply must see Adelaide's new frock," are murmurs which one frequently hears at the smart functions which keep Boston's fashionable set "on the go."

In other words, Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman, the former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, may be counted on to be gowned in the very latest mode. For which reason we have designated her as one of the "six most smartly-groomed matrons in Boston society," along with Mrs. Arthur L. Richmond, Mrs. Thomas G. Stevenson, Mrs. Lothrop M. Weld, Mrs. Frank Wigglesworth and Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr.

During the past Winter, when the Whitmans made their home at No. 145 Beacon street, Mrs. Whitman was very much in the limelight, because of her success as the writer of "Why Not," the musical comedy presented in March for the benefit of the Children's Hospital.

Those of the charmed inner circle who did not attend the presentation of "Why Not" took part in it, and for quite some time afterwards there was no end of chattering over the tea-cups about it. Needless to say, the one-time Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor was showered from all sides with congratulations upon the success of her brain-child.

THE latter was down on the program as "A Melod(y)rama in Two Syncopated Thrills and One Intermission." The setting was Mexican, and I understand that its clever author, or authoress, I suppose I should say, procured a number of ideas for it during her sojourn in Paris last Summer. It seems somewhat superfluous to mention that during the same visit to the French capital the fashionable Mrs. Whitman added not inconsiderably to the wardrobe which is the envy of so many of her acquaintances.

One of the notable numbers of "Why Not" was the rather weird Aztec Dance, led by Mrs. Whitman, the other "Aztecs" being the Misses Eleanora Winslow, Gertrude Wiggin, Elizabeth Wells, Ruth Yerxa, Natalie Winslow and Laura Lincoln. Besides having written the book of "Why Not," the former Miss Chatfield-Taylor designed the scenery, the music being composed by Bob Ware and Dwight Fiske.

Mrs. Whitman, who is a tall and slender brunette, is just the type born with the art of being well-groomed. She has dark hair, brown eyes and flashing white teeth, and the last time I saw her she looked very smart in the white linen frock with the wearer's initials embroidered upon the front, and the wide-brimmed hat of burnt-orange, trimmed with nasturtiums, which completed the costume most effectively.

The Whitmans are spending the season at "Cedar Hill," their North Shore estate at North Beverly, where the author of "Why Not" is one of the leading members of the Summer clan.

THE Frederick Princes have once again deserted "Princemere," their magnificent place at Pride's Crossing, which is, of course, of interest to members of the sport-loving clan along the Shore, where the Princes are among the leaders.

I understand that they have sailed for Pau, France, where they spent the past Winter and where they will remain until Spring, when they will return to these shores. With the master and mistress of "Princemere" have gone a number of their beautiful horses, for I believe that polo is one of the popular sports at Pau.

Freddie Prince was among those players on Friday at the two-day polo tournament held at "Princemere" in aid of the army and navy, when the crack players of the Shore showed their skill at the exciting game. All society flocked to the field for the occasion—arranged by "Pete" Sortwell—and also to see the horse show and whippet races held between the games.

THOSE of the younger set along the North Shore who sail their boats are looking forward to the races which are to be held tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the Manchester Yacht Club. These aquatic events have now become very popular with the young folk, where they arouse quite a bit of good-natured rivalry and keen competition.

EXTRADITION OF DR. SCHREIBER IS REFUSED

Governor Thomas Harwick of Georgia has declined to honor the extradition papers made out by Governor Cox for the return to Massachusetts of Dr. Eugene Schreiber, indicted by a local grand jury for desertion of his wife, Mrs. Katherine Schreiber of Blue Hill, Mattapan, and their two children.

Dispatches from Atlanta state that Governor Harwick based his refusal on statements by attorneys for Dr. Schreiber to the effect that the physician is not a fugitive from Massachusetts, since the separation between him and his wife occurred in Florida.

Dr. Schreiber left Boston in 1920, it was testified, and lived with his wife in Florida for a time. There they agreed to separate, it was said, and Mrs. Schreiber came to Boston, while Dr. Schreiber went to Georgia.

The physician was arrested a week or so ago by the authorities in Macon, who held him on wife-desertion charges at the request of Boston authorities. He secured his release by means of habeas corpus proceedings, however, before Inspectors Finn and Flaherty of the Boston police force reached the Georgia city to fight for his detention.

Early this Spring he filed suit for divorce in the Georgia courts. His wife filed an answer and counter suit in June, and it is expected that trial of the case will not come for several months.

A few weeks ago a band of armed men is said to have seized Dr. Schreiber in the middle of the night, after calling him from his Macon home, and ordered him to leave the city. He said later that he had no idea who the men were, but that he intended to obey their order.

VISIT TO CHILD BANNED, KILLS 2

Cleveland, O., July 12.—With a bullet lodged in his brain, from his own revolver, John Mittermueller, twenty-six years old, lies today at the point of death. Should he survive an operation he will face a double charge of murder for killing of his divorced wife, Mrs. Katie Mittermueller, and her father, Frank Blasius. Refusal of Mrs. Mittermueller to permit him to see their little daughter was the reason given for the killings by Mittermueller.

WARNED TO CLOSE BARS ON SHIPS

By International News Service

Washington, July 12.—A warning that the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy bill would be defeated unless shipping board "bars" are closed was issued to the administration today by Congressional "dry" leaders.

Voiced by Senator Willis, Republican of Ohio, the warning was delivered on the eve of a decision by the Department of Justice on the legality of liquor sales on Shipping Board vessels. Willis declared the Shipping Board has as much right to deal in slaves as it has to sell liquor.

For Hot, Humid Days

For the hot, humid days that make your feet swell and burn, Cantilever Shoes are a welcome relief.

Cantilever Shoes are patterned from the natural outline of the foot. The result is such absolute comfort that you are never conscious that Cantilever Shoes touch the foot at any point.

There is ample toe room. The inner sole line, which follows the line of the foot, allows the toes to point straight ahead in their natural position. The heel of Cantilever Shoes is slightly tilted; it tends to distribute the weight evenly.

The flexible shank is drawn up when the shoe is laced so that it meets and supports the arch of the foot at every point. The flexibility of the shank allows the muscles to exercise freely, which strengthens the arch muscles.

Try Cantilever Shoes for your summer foot troubles. You will like their good looks and their refreshing comfort.

'MEL' TROTTER PRAYED FOR STRENGTH TO 'GO RIGHT'

The Boston American today prints another instalment of the affidavit of George W. Walker, former president of the Rescue Mission in Grand Rapids, in which he relates the details of the alleged amours of 'Mel' Trotter, Boston's fiery evangelist, who, while his wife's divorce case is in progress, continues to exhort his followers to a higher life.

Walker says that a confession of the love tryst in the rescue mission made by Florence Mosley, the beautiful mission worker, whom Mrs. Trotter accused in her letter, was followed by a dramatic scene staged in his home, in which he testifies the evangelist embraced Mrs. Trotter and on bended knees prayed for strength to "go right."

Trotter swore to redeem himself in his wife's eyes, the affidavit states, and "that night entertained two of the women to whom his wife had objected."

The affidavit follows, telling the tragedy of coming love in the Trotter home, after the birth of the "mission love child" to Florence Mosley. The chapter tells of Mrs. Trotter's pitiful efforts to regain the love of "the only man God ever intended her to have." The chapter also tell of the dramatic reconciliation, during which Mel Trotter made "the grandest prayer man's ears ever listened to."

Q.—Why did you go to see Mrs. Trotter? A.—Mr. Trotter asked me to go up and see if I could get her either to give him a divorce or separate maintenance, as he said this thing could not go on new further, and I told him that I thought and positively knew she loved him, but I said, "I will go up and talk to her."

Q.—Did you report back to Mr. Trotter?

ONLY ONE MAN TO LOVE.

A.—I did.

Q.—What did you tell him about that interview? A.—I told him what I approached Mrs. Trotter she commenced to cry.

She said, "God gave me the only one man to love and that was him." And I told him I explained it in this way: "Mrs. Trotter, you say you love him; you say he doesn't love you. There is no way under heaven you could make him love you if he doesn't. You say you are afraid to stay here; that you are miserable all the time."

Q.—Go on. A.—I asked her if she didn't think separate maintenance would be the proper thing under those conditions and she said: "Positively not, as long as I have any show on earth. Some day that illness is coming back on Mr. Trotter, or that man is going to break down. I want to be his devoted wife when the time comes he is out and can't do his work."

A PEACE COUNCIL

Q.—Anything further that you reported to Mr. Trotter? A.—I might have talked more to him, but just along that line; that she didn't want separate maintenance. Divorce is the farthest thing from her mind; she wants him.

Q.—Were there any further negotiations in which you had some part? A.—O, yes, at the settlement out to my house—now that may be Greek to you—but at the settlement that Mr. and Mrs. Trotter had out to the house—

(Counsel for the defence objected, but Mr. Walker was permitted to explain the settlement.)

A (Continued)—I was sick in bed and Mr. Danne and Mr. Otte came out on Sunday. We talked this matter over and I told them my heart was bleeding for Mr. Trotter, as I loved him. And Mr. Danne, I believe, suggested that perhaps it would be the best thing if Mr. Trotter were to resign his work. Now, I said, "I would like to have one more chance at getting them back together." And it was agreed that Mr. Danne was to call Mr. Trotter and I was to call Mrs. Trotter, but I said it would look so much more pleasant if Mr. Danne could arrange to have Mr. Trotter bring Mrs. Trotter out, and it was finally agreed in that way, and I was to meet them. Adrian Otte said: "George, I will never let you go through this alone, you are too weak."

Q.—Did Mr. and Mrs. Trotter come out? A.—They came on Monday at 9 o'clock.

Q.—Begin there at that point and tell us just what was said and done.

APPEAL FOR TRUTH.

A.—Mr. and Mrs. Trotter and Mr. Adrian Otte came out. I first talked to Mr. Trotter. I told him what things I knew and had seen around the mission. I said, "Maybe she has had occasion at times to act a little crazy." I talked very plain. I turned around to her and I said: "Mrs. Trotter, I have evaded your story for years, never allowed you to tell me your story until last week, when I invited you out here and gave you my permission to tell it. Now I want to repeat to you the same as I repeated to you then, that is, if you say one lie, tell one lie against the work of Mr. Trotter there is no penal institution in this State black enough to put you in. Now I want the truth."

She said, "It is a pleasure for me to give it to you." She went on and gave me her story. I said, "Mrs. Trotter, you are a little hard of hearing. There may have been things that occurred that to you sounded perhaps just a little different than they were, but you promised me the other day that your main thought was to protect the work of Jesus Christ and I have cut the two of you out here for that purpose." She wiped her eyes a bit and said, "But Mr. Trotter will not be faithful to a promise."

"THERE SHE GOES."

Mr. Trotter spoke right up, "There she goes," he said. "She wants me to confess just one thing." "Now," I said: "Mr. Trotter, hold on. I am not in this deal for any confessions and I don't know as that was on her mind, but what I want you two to do is to forget everything that is in the past right up to this minute and let's start from this time and lead a new life."

Mr. Trotter said, "I will do anything on earth; I will take more than 50 per cent. of all the blame."

I turned to Mrs. Trotter and said: "Mother, that is all you or anybody else could desire. Be brave and come across."

She said, "If you will put me back into the work, make it possible for me to go back in the work, all right." Mr. Trotter said, "I will do that."

Then Mrs. Trotter came back with one more thing. She said: "I would like you to promise me two things. The first is that you make it possible for me to go back to my woman's work. The second is that you get rid of that girl in the office. Not that I have anything against Ruth Hartman (that is her name), but she knows Mr. Trotter's side of the story and when I go in there she makes it a little embarrassing, believing that I am crazy."

Mr. Trotter said: "I will do anything on earth." And with that the two of them embraced and kissed each other and sank to their knees and the most beautiful prayer ever uttered from a man's lips was uttered by Mr. Trotter that day, and it was decided that they were to go on and forget all the past, never to bring it up. We had a great love feast and both of them wept and in a few moments they left the house hand in hand.

The next instalment of this interesting document will be printed in tomorrow's Boston American.

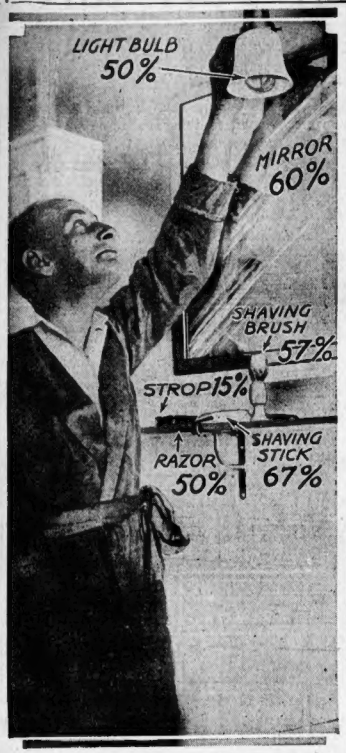
REPUBLICAN HIGH TARIFF BILL A BLOW AT AVERAGE MAN'S PURSE



CHAPTER III! YOU CAN'T KEEP A GOOD MAN

Down, and Public B. Darned is a Good Average Citizen! But the Republicans' new high tariff bill has him worried (note the frown). His average day has been beset by tariff accensions on all sides. Today we find him entering the bathroom. He turns on the light and finds the bulb has taken a tariff jump of 50 per cent. And the Republican clan think that's letting him off light. But just read those figures above as he shaves. The new bill, in short, means that foreign competition will be stifled, placing us poor Public B. Darneds at the mercy of domestic profiteers.

BOSTON CAN NOT ONLY

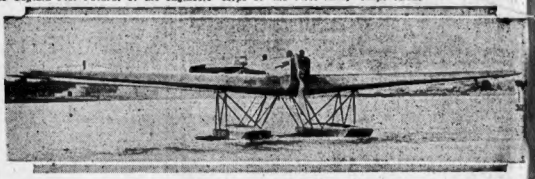
FREIGHT DIFFERENTIAL NOT THE ONLY DRAWBACK TO IMPROVED

Commerce and Trade by Water! Before Boston insists on new differential, steps should be taken to improve the harbor's main ship channel, which is now only 36 feet deep. Forty feet should be the minimum. Every type of craft could then enter here. Among the staunch supporters of the plan is Captain Pier Pocardi of the engineers' corps of the First Army Corps Area.



FIRST SUCCESSFUL MONO-SEAPLANE EVER BUILT.

A strange looking craft is this invention of Herr Fokker, the famous Dutch airplane designer, which has just been demonstrated before naval officers at Washington. The sturdy pontoons look like feet and the lone wings supplement the appearance of a giant bird. (International News Reel.)

SINN FEINERS ATTACKED IN JAIL

Persecution of Catholic citizens of Ulster, with all the horrors that always accompany religious warfare, is described in detail in today's instalment of the Irish Bulletin, issued weekly by the Dail Eireann.

The manner in which soldiers made an unprovoked attack on prisoners in a jail, excusing themselves to their superiors later by pleading that they "had been attacked," is related by a man to whom certain of the soldiers described the affair.

The bulletin follows:

This is an incident typical of any one of the 840 cases in which Catholics have been chased from their homes in Belfast since Easter.

On June 1, after Grosvenor place had been burned, a mob of women came to the house of Mrs. Jamison, 66 Grosvenor road, at 6 30 a. m. A respectable Protestant woman named Mrs. McKegney, Athol street, was in the crowd. She declared to the mob that she did not believe in killing people, as she was a Christian, but if they would shoot Mrs. Jamison in the legs that would make her glad to go away, as she wanted that house (Mrs. Jamison's) for her married daughter.

Some of the crowd to hold her tongue as Mrs. Jamison was inside, but she said she did not care, as she wanted it to be heard.

HOUSE IS LOOTED.

When Mrs. Jamison left she went to Durham street via College street, and immediately on coming into Durham street, the Whippet armored car which followed her, opened fire into Durham street (Catholic end), where all was quiet. A demand for protection on May 31 was made to Cullingtree Road Barrack by Mrs. Jamison. It appears that this armored Whippet tank was sent for protection, but went to wrong number deliberately.

Between 3 and 4 p. m. on June 1, Mrs. Jamison was ordered to clear out in 10 minutes. On that day the houses of Catholics on Grosvenor road were taken in retaliation. Mrs. Jamison had to leave though the Whippet car was outside No. 79, and it, accompanied by the Lancia car, patrolled the district all day and never attempted to interfere with the mob.

Mrs. Jamison went back to the house, and at 7 30 went out for milk, on the way back two Protestant women living in Durham street, Mrs. McAuley and Mrs. Halliday swore they would murder her if she came back that way again.

Mrs. Jamison left the house until Saturday. She then went to Cullingtree Barracks and obtained protection to visit the house. When she entered the house she found all the clothing, including wearing apparel, bed clothes and linen, looted, and the furniture smashed beyond repair. The Protestants would not burn Mrs. Jamison out because they wanted it for themselves.

HOW IT IS DONE.

This incident will appear so incredible to all who do not know the "Specials" or know Belfast that we think it well to say in advance that the facts therein recorded are embodied in a statutory declaration and can be substantiated before any impartial tribunal.

The narrator in the declaration sets forth that on a certain day towards the end of May he was in a certain place in Belfast, and was taken (to be what he was not. A "Special" constable from the platoon on the Crumlin Road Jail was there. He was in good form, confidential and reminiscent. "You remember," said he, "that raid on the Prison about a month ago. Did you hear how we worked that stunt? We were around at the back of the prison, and at one of the gates we found a man's glove. That gave me an idea. The Shinners in the prison were singing songs at the time, and I and some other chaps went into the prison. I emptied my revolver at a window where one of the Shinners was singing. We saw a lot more heads then at the windows of other cells and we fired at them. We fired over twenty rounds.

"After that we went in and reported that we were attacked, but that we beat them off. The Head Constable sent us out to search for spent cartridges or bullets. We got a flask and picked up some we had fired off ourselves."

"THE YELLOW STAIN"
Fox Production

Keeth .....John Gilbert
Thora .....Claire Anderson
Erickson .....Mark Fenton
Kersten .....William Daly

"THE YELLOW STAIN," at Loew's Orpheum this week, is just a picture. The story is interesting, but not astonishing, nor, on the other hand, does it do any harm.

John Gilbert is very acceptable in the leading role, that of an upright young lawyer who "goes West, young man," to practice law. In Owasco he finds that the town as well as the law is owned by a lumber king. He also finds Thora Erickson there. Egged on by the girl, he frees the town and the law from the clutches of the villain.

FROM "THE CONNING TOWER."

F. P. A., who runs "The Conning Tower" in the New York World, is responsible for the following dope on the movies:

"Gossip from filmland, as it is called, is to the effect that a decendant of Sitting Bull has taken a movie job. Suggested screen name: Sitting Pretty."

NEILAN'S FIRST.

SINCE Marshall Neilan signed up to direct productions under the Goldwyn banner, "filmland," as it is called, has been waiting more or less anxiously to find out what stories had been chosen for him. It was prophesied that he would wield his megaphone over "Ben Hur."

News from the coast is to the effect that Neilan will start work immediately on a film adaptation of Donn Byrne's "The Stranger's Banquet," published in 1919. The director bought the screen rights to the story when it first appeared on the book stalls. There will be an all-star cast.

BILLIE BURKE IN MAINE.

BILLIE BURKE and her small daughter, Patricia Ziegfeld, have taken a cottage for the Summer at York Harbor, Me., where the star will rest before she takes up her work in the Fall.

JACK HOLT COMING.

THERE has been question whether or not the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation intends keeping their Long Island studio open and on a working basis. Studios in the East seem to be at a premium now, anyway, since all the companies are moving Westward.

The news that Jack Holt is on his way to New York to make his next production there points to the fact that Lasky intends to keep both plants going at full blast. Alice Brady is busy on Long Island making "Missing Millions." Holt will start on a Peter B. Kyne story, "Making a Man," which Joseph Henaberry will direct.

GILBERT BUSY.

JOHN GILBERT is hard at work on his next Fox production, "Honor First," which that company has re-named from "The Splendid Outcast," by George Gibbs. Jerome Storm is directing.

"BEAUTIFUL AND DAMNED."

BEYOND other than F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Beautiful and Damned" has been bought for filming by the Warner Brothers, who seem to keep one eye on the list of best sellers and the other eye on check-writing. Who will be seen in the roles of Gloria and Anthony is still shrouded in mystery.

This company has already bought Charles G. Norris' "Brass" and Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street," but as yet no plans for actual "shooting" have been made public.

FOR GLADYS WALTON.

UNIVERSAL has bought two new stories for Gladys Walton, "The Lavender Lady," by Channon Fife, and "Sawdust," by Courtney Ryley Cooper. The latter is doubtless a circus story, which will make the second of this type that Miss Walton has made.

LOIS WILSON LOANED.

LOIS Wilson has been loaned to Universal by the Famous Players-Lasky company. What picture she will make and with whom she will play has not been announced.

YOUNG MOTHER LEFT BABY IN SWAMP

New York, July 12.—The police of the Coney Island precinct found a clew which they believe will identify the mother of the swamp baby. The little girl was found near Coney Island.

A middle-aged woman identified the swamp baby as a child that had been placed in her care and later taken away by its mother.

The police believe that the mother recently had married, and took the baby from the boarding house. She then confessed to her husband.

According to the police theory, the husband refuser to accept the baby and insisted that his wife dispose of it.

The suggestion that the baby be left in the swamp, the police believe came from the husband, and was accepted by the wife only because love of husband had become a more powerful influence than maternal love.

Jerry Fernice, an Ireman, was driving his ice wagon along Billwell avenue when his attention was arrested by sounds made by a goat. He investigated and found the baby. Fernice hurried with the baby to the Coney Island police station. There the child was found to be literally covered with mosquito bites.

10-YEAR-OLD GIRL RESCUES TWO

Uxbridge, July 12.—Ten-yearold Marian Benjamin of Wheelockaville is a heroine.

She saved the lives of her sister Alice and of Mary Grenier of Carney street, a chum as they were in the throes of a death struggle in Pout Pond.

Alice and Mary, are excellent swimmers, but Mary got a chill in deep water after sliding from a raft. She cried for help. Alice Benjamin went to her assistance but was powerless when the girl got a death grip upon her.

Marian held onto the raft with one hand and reached the girls with the other and managed to tug them to the floating platform.

TO STRIKE AT AMOSKEAG TILL STARVATION

By CHARLES O. POWELL

Manchester, N. H., July 12.—"As long as the commissaries hold out the strikers will hold out. If they ever reach the point that they cannot supply our bare necessities then we will have to weaken. That's human nature. Hunger we can stand but no one has been able to out up a successful fight against starvation.

"And we will fight until we are starved against the heartless treatment of Amoskeag."

Old and toil-worn, gray-haired and weary-faced, shabbily-dressed yet scrupulously neat was the woman patron of one of the strikers' commissaries who gave me her views on the troubles of the Amoskeag workers, who went on strike twenty-two weeks ago because they felt to accept the company order to increase their working hours from 48 to 54 a week and decrease their wages twenty per cent., would be to sink into the depths of industrial slavery.

A GIRL'S EXPERIENCE.

"You think it is hard on me to be obliged to labor in the Amoskeag Mills, do you" she said. "Well, I must confess it is trying, but I am so much better off than some of the others that I do not feel like complaining.

"When I was a girl I dreamed my dreams, of course. When I was a young woman I did not have sense enough to fit myself for any occupation requiring skill and special knowledge. Good pay was what I wanted and good clothes and good times. So I went to work in a mill and, compared with the wages and the cost of living today, I was soon earning good pay and enough to satisfy my desire for fine things.

"Well, I married and was out of the mills for about ten years. Then my husband died and I had to go back. That was years ago, just how many I will not say because it might identify me and because a woman's age, you know, is her secret. My baby lived to be a grown-up little girl and then went to join her father. Since then I have been alone. I am far along on the down grade of life but I am cheerful, just the same because I have never done any boss or woman an injustice and I am not afraid of the future because my conscience is clear.

"The new scale of hours and wages is unjust. How many hours do you suppose the wives of the bosses could work in a mill? Of course, our clubwomen will say such a question is absurd. But it is not. We women of the mills are of the same physical, mental and moral fibre. We have feelings, weaknesses, pains and aches as well as the ladies of the fine homes, the only difference being that we must care for ourselves as best we can while they have the best of everything lavished upon them.

MRS. CONNELL'S VIEWS.

Mr old lady friend of the mills is wrong in rendering a blanket indictment of the club women of Manchester. There may be good basis for her attitude toward some of them and it may be that Mrs. John J. Connell is the exception that proves the case.

"I know mill conditions and I know mill workers and the homes" said Mrs. Connell when I asked her to give me the educated and thought ful woman's ideas on the strike situation. There is not a better class of people in the world. They are honest, they are most agreeable and they are patient and law abiding.

"From the social welfare point of view, keeping women and girls in the mills more than 48 hours a week is the worst thing the mill officials could do. Forty-eight hours a week is great plenty for a ll women.

"My sympathies of course are with the strikers. I feel the hardships which Amoskeag mill men now on strike must be forced to endure. I know during

JOHNNY BUFF A SICK MAN WHEN HE LOST TITLE TO JOE LYNCH

CHAMPION KNEW HE'D BE LICKED

There is a deep touch of pathos in the story of Johnny Buff's surrender of the world's bantamweight championship to Joe Lynch. Few of the 20,000 spectators at the Velodrome ringside Monday night realized the hopelessness of the odds under which the little Jerseyite battled.

The former champion's pitiful efforts to stand off a strong and confident opponent, bent on retrieving the title, provoked sympathy which would have been increased ten fold if the spectators had known that Buff was a sick little man when he agreed to give Lynch a shot at the title and only a shell of his championship self when he crawled through the ropes Monday night.

His appearance in contrast to the keen-eyed West Sider who had come fresh from the country, trained to the minute, was remarked at once by those close to the ring. Johnny was sallow, dull eyed and apathetic.

Experienced observers commented on Johnny's lack of form as he plodded through the early rounds, utterly unable to devise a defence against Lynch's jabs and hopelessly swinging his right at the shifting target that Joe presented. Lynch was in rare form, but Buff made him look better than he really was.

• • •

Buff made his match with Lynch, knowing that he was giving away weight and reach and vitality, which he never regained after the illness that forced him to lay off for seven months. He knew that any good bantam might "take him" unless he could lend a right haymaker in an early round.

• • •

According to well-posted pinsmen, Buffs handlers decided that under the circumstances it would be risky to send Johnny out to get a couple of fights "under his belt" after the removal of infected gland that sapped his strength for weeks.

Buff could not come back to his old form and it is doubtful if he ever does. So he did what any one would have done under the circumstances when he sought the match that offered the best financial inducement.

Johnny had no desire to stall with his title as certain other champions are doing. Had he made a match with any one of the half dozen first class bantams, he might have been knocked off and received only a few thousand dollars for relinquishing his title.

He felt that Lynch was entitled to whatever glory and advantage that might accrue from defeating him because Joe when he first had the championship was always willing to defend his title against the most worthy opponents.

And so the match was made under terms which carried a premium on the loss of the title.

W. J. McDONALD DRIVES HIS ALBIA TODD TO VICTORY

FINISH OF 2:15 TROT IN AMATEUR REINSMEN'S MEET AT SPEEDWAY. GRACE WORTHY IS SECOND AND HUMFAST THIRD

THIS IS GOVERNOR'S DAY WITH THE REINSMEN

By FRED C. LANE

Governor Channing H. Cox will be the guest of honor at the second day's racing of the Eighth Annual meeting of the Amateur Driving Clubs at the Charles River Speedway this afternoon.

George A. Graves

Club officials looked forward to the largest crowd of the season because of both "Governor's Day" and the exceptionally fine array of racers carded.

The 2:13 trot, with such horses as Albia Todd, owned and driven by William J. McDonald, upholding the colors of Boston and the Metropolitan Club; Humfast, owned by J. Bruce Hay of the Road Horse Association of New Jersey, and Grace Worthy, owned by John J. Morris of the same club, is a tussle that will prove a magnet in drawing out the most conservative horse lovers.

The first day's racing left the Metropolitan Club with a total of 18, leading the Road Horse Association of New Jersey by three points. Nassau Driving Club was third with 5, Hartford had two, and Old Colony and Goshen Clubs had one each.

The victory of Albia Todd owned and driven by William J. McDonald in the 2:13, trot, was the feature of the afternoon. McDonald gave a fine exhibition of horsemanship in this event coming in the face of heavy opposition in two straight heats.

Wesley R., owned and driven by George H. Todd, and Grace Worthy, owned and driven by John J. Morris caused the Boston entry to step its fastest.

The race for two-year-olds was second in interest to the big stake. Not till four heats had been run off was Jill Talbot owned and driven by J. J. Looney of the Nassau Club declared the winner. George H. and Judge Binger, and Ruby M. owned by H. N. Milan, both of the Metropolitan Club, showed above the field in the first two heats, but a bad break by Judge Binger coming down the home stretch in the third heat lost him the blue ribbon.

George Harvester, owned by James Hennessey of Boston, displayed plenty of gameness in the three-year-old trot, winning the event handily in two heats. Not once during the gruelling ride did the colt show any signs of breaking.

Miss Cowles of the R. H. A. Club was too fast a stepper for Oregon Hall, driven by McDonald. Stacey Smith's filley won both heats of the 2:10 trot, just nosing out the Boston entry on both occasions.

Rain Holds Up Big Golf Tourney Title Play

Glencoe, Ill., July 12 (By the Associated Press).—Today's qualifying round in the national open golf tournament was postponed until tomorrow, when it was found to be impossible to play over the course, which had been flooded by a heavy rain which showed no signs of letting up.

TILLIE WALKER LEADS SLUGGERS

Tillie Walker of the Athletics is the new American League home run leader, displacing Ken Williams of the Browns as a result of cracking out a circuit blow in each game of a double victory the Mackmen scored over Detroit, 4-2 and 9-5. Walker now has twenty-one homers and Williams twenty. Incidentally Eddie Rommel received credit for winning both contests, the second time he has chalked up a double triumph in a day this season.

Will Buy Out Fitchburg

Fitchburg, July 12.—A syndicate headed by W.W. Sargent, head of the Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway, plans to buy the Fitchburg franchises and to strengthen the team.

AMATEURS RIDE FOR BIKE TITLE

If the local weather today is "hot as it Warmer," it will bring closer to the bike fans of Greater Boston. At the Revere track today [illegible] biggest card of the season [illegible].

Manager Butler has listed the New England Amateur sprint championship and a four-cornered 15-mile motor paced races as the premier attractions. F. Jarvis, L. Harten, G. Angell, C. Levine, M. Wallace and Rocco Geddu, from other New England cities have entered the amateur classic. Trial and semi-final heats at one half mile will qualify six riders for the final heat. This heat will be one mile, and the winner will be awarded the National Cycling Association diamond medal, emblematic of the championship.

George Wiley is the favorite in the motor paced affair. The diminutive New Yorker is now doing the best riding of his career.

Opposed to him will be Victor Linart of Belgium, world's title holder; Jackie Clarke, the Australian, and Charley Verkyn of Belgium.

A five-mile professional, a pro handicap, and an amateur scratch race will complete the bill.

DARED EVIL DUKE WINS BIG BET

The Duke of Leinster, who last week won a $15,000 bet by driving a racing automobile from London to Aberdeen in record time, is said to be planning a novel race across the Atlantic. When interviewed regarding the project, the duke would say little except that plans were being made for the race. He is known as the "mad devil" sportsman of England.

REVERE JUNIORS GOING STRONG

The Revere Junior All Stars are seeking games with any thirteen or fourteen year-old teams in the State, either at or away from home. Leo Shea, manager, telephone Revere 0191 between 5 and 6.

We have already defeated the Crescent A. C. of Cambridge, Bennetts of Somerville, Medford All Stars of Medford and nineteen other clubs. The only game these youths lost was to St. Joseph's of Lynn, and they have been unable to book another game with the Shoe City nine.

READING DEFEATS DORCHESTER'S TEAM

The Dorchester Baseball Club suffered defeat at the hands of the Reading Town team on Ronan Park when Les Andrews twirled the visitors to a 2 to 0 victory and allowed but two hits.

The greatly strengthened Reading team looked like a million dollars on the Dorchester orchard and nobody who has seen this club play before would have ever recognized them. This youth, Les Andrews, is a newcomer in a way to the Twilight fans, but is better known throughout Quincy and has been twirling excellent ball for the Boston Postoffice nine.

Andrews really won his own ball game when he hit the onion far into left field for three bases with another man on the sack. While on the other hand his team played air-tight ball behind his delivery.

CAMBRIDGE GIVES A SUNDAY LICENSE

The Cambridge Park Department wrote another chapter in the Sunday baseball question when they issued a permit to the North Cambridge team to play the Salem Town Team at Russell Field next Sunday. By a majority vote, however, it was decided that no collection could be taken, and that anyone receiving money, even outside the grounds, would be subject to arrest. Manager Dan Leahy declared that the game will be played regardless of the absence of voluntary offerings.

DORCHESTER BOYS SEEK GAMES

JIM CORBETT TELLS HOW HARRY WILLS MAY WIN TITLE

WILLS HAS TWO KAYO PUNCHES

By JACK CONWAY.

"Harry Wills," said James J. Corbett, former world's champion, "may knock Jack Dempsey out with a left hook to the jaw or a right-hand punch to the same spot. Unlike Dempsey, the great negro heavyweight relies upon single punches to crush the fighting spirit of his opponents.

"Wills gets his entire 220 pounds behind his left hook. Just as the blow is about to land, he turns his wrist sharply, which gives added power to the smash. It was almost the same kind of a snapping of the wrist that enabled Joe Wood to gain such great success when he was pitching for the Red Sox back in 1912.

"A left hook delivered in the ordinary nonchalant manner isn't very effective. It hurts an opponent, but it doesn't knock him out. The Wills wallop has the kick that puts 'em to sleep like some of the hootch the boys are now drinking.

"Wills also has a sweet right hand punch. The blow is delivered straight for the jaw and lands with crushing effect." If Harry scores with this wallop, Dempsey will hit the canvas, even though he may have to regain his feet. Wills' tremendous weight will accomplish this result.

"Carpentier hit Dempsey a terrific sock on the chin in the second round at Jersey City, but the Frenchman didn't have enough weight behind his blow to drop his rival. Dempsey was virtually out on his feet and was mighty fortunate to weather the storm.

"Wills has a fair left jab, but I don't figure it will bother Dempsey a whole lot. Harry will bank his hopes of winning the world's heavyweight championship on his left hook to the jaw and his right hand wallop to the same spot."

Boston American's Tip Is Confirmed Again

From New York comes the information that Paddy Mullins, acting for Wills, has signed the articles of agreement for the Dempsey bout. Mullins, says the dispatch, agreed to all the conditions insisted upon by Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey. This was very natural inasmuch as Wills will get more money out of the coming battle than he has made during his entire fighting career.

The terms for the tussle were really decided upon several months ago. The Boston American informed its readers more than two months ago that the title match had been made.

Kearns and Mullins also confirmed the Boston American's tip that Dempsey would engage in several bouts before he takes Wills. The articles for the bout do not bar either Dempsey or Wills from engaging in other contests before they whirl forth in their big bout.

The season of waiting for the big contest is now at hand. Publicity seekers from all parts of the world will offer as much as four or five million dollars for the privilege of staging the greatest ring match in history.

All of which will cause those "in the know" to enjoy a good laugh. The promoter has already been agreed upon. He answers to the name of Tex Rickard, but those persons who might be willing to offer a larger purse than Richard, but their chances of really staging the great conflict would be slim. Rickard knows how to put big bouts over. There will not be any opposition from the authorities when Tex finally decides to go ahead. Which is as it should be.

'WILLS' WINS THE HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

SPRINGFIELD TO HAVE 'SHIP' CIRCUIT

Springfield, July 12.—The fifth week of harness racing under the auspices of the "short" ship circuit begins today at the Exposition Grounds when four classes will be raced with a total value of $5,600 for the day's winners.

This track is undeniably the fastest and best half-mile track in the country. It is possible to score nine horses in the front rank, without trouble.

Last year Direction Jay and Margaret Dillon both raced a mile in 2.04¾, which serves to show what a whiz of a course it must be.

The stakes for two and three-year-old trotters will be the features. Trumpet the two-year-old which has won her last two starts, should repeat but will have a few new nags to beat. In the three-year-old trot Harvest Money and Lucia Ekawah will again meet once more, each having a victory over the other in the last two weeks of racing.

Friday will have for its feature the free-for-all trot with Charlie Rex the logical one to beat.

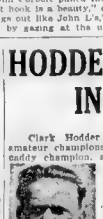
Saturday as usual will have for its drawing card the free-for-all pace with all of the fast pacers which raced at Windsor last week carded to take the word. With good weather and good track conditions, it looks like a new racing track record will be written on the year book.

Altrock Will Be There

Springfield, July 12—The committee in charge of Roosters' day, to be held at Lenox park Thursday afternoon, last night received a telegram from Nick Altrock, baseball's most famous funmaker, in which Nick stated he will be on hand for the festivities.

HODDER AND MacANDREW IN A DEADLOCK

By F. G. THAYER



C. MacAndrew.

Clark Hodder of Commonwealth, recent finalist in the State amateur championship, and "Jock" MacAndrew of Wollaston, former caddy champion, are in a deadlock for the medalist trophy as a result of the qualifying round at Commonwealth yesterday, of the junior championship, in which eighty-six boys competed.

Both Hodder and MacAndrew had a number of opportunities where they could have bettered their performances, the former taking four sixes on the outward nine while "Jock" annexed three of these pencil blots together with an eight just to tax his mind a bit.

However, a 44 and 48 for these par artists was nothing but temporary hysteria, from which lapses they quickly recovered, coming home in 84 and 35 respectively. Both played the home hole like champions, Hodder back-spinning to the green stone dead, and MacAndrew, with his canny Scotch tricks, sliding off the bank and dropping a five-foot putt.

They were the only scorers under the eighty mark and many are the sad and disappointed hearts tonight among the youths who failed to play up to their form and tomorrow join the gallery followers.

One of them is Ray Lapham, who is one of eight tied for the seven last places and who had the misfortune to go into the brink, hordering on the second tee, in the play-off. This came after a nervy recovery on the first hole when he was apparently out of the running. Fate seemed to be against him and the other three lads, Holden, Rourke and Rowen got par fours at the second extra, thus eliminating Lapham who had played five shots.

Match play rounds of eighteen holes start at 9 this morning and the pairs leave the first tee in five-minute intervals. The first two pairs off, Sullivan and McGrail and McKeon and Hodder could provide interesting contests, and if McKeon gets his shots going straight, he is likely to press the medalist to the end. Robert Cox, James Lally and Charles MacAndrew are semi-finalist timber, the latter being a better match player than medal, yesterday taking three putts on twelve greens.

In the lower bracket of the draw, Fd Stimpson, James Conroy, Fred Lowe, J. M. Batchelder, Horace Partridge, "Jock" MacAndrew and others are sure to make the going rough. The finals should bring this name "Mac" against either Hodder or the younger "Mac."

OLD RED SOX STARS FEATURE IN FLAYING FENWAY FLOCK

INDIANS ON WAR PATH IN FIGHT FOR LEAD

By NICK FLATLEY

Tris Speaker's Indians don't look anything like the ball club their record for the past month would make you think them. In said past month they have skidded from the edge of the crest, almost to the cellar, but if their opening effort meant anything, they've changed their habits.

Watch those Indians, and you will be positive that the old Red Sox had some Ponce de Leon baseball scheme. Away back before the days of Bill Carrigan, Tris Speaker, Joe Wood and Larry Gardner were stars in these parts. That was a dozen years ago, but the three are starring still.

Tris is hitting .360, which isn't bad, and can still pursue the curving baseball, and haul it out of the breeze more gracefully and more frequently than his younger compeers. Joe Wood is now a cleanup hitter, with a mark better than .300, and one of the niftiest of our right-fielders.

Larry Scoops Them Around Third Like True Collegian

Larry Gardner scoops them up around third like the collegian he was once, and whangs them over to first, after taking a peek at the trademark, same as ever he did. Lawrence likewise is smiling the agate.

The Indians still expect to cut quite a figure in the race. They were victims of injury and sickness early in the year, and their pitchers weren't going well. The halt and the sick have all returned to business, and the club is beginning to get regular flinging.

Manager Speaker Says the Pitchers Are Coming Through

"In the last few series," remarks Manager Speaker, "Covaleskie, Morton, Ehmke and the rest have been coming through with good games. So we're beginning to win. The pitchers were late getting started, but they're likely to be in there strong when some of the other staffs crack. You can get up just as far in the last half of the season as you can go down in the first half.

"In fact, the climbing is easier if your luck doesn't start breaking until the halfway mark is passed. Most pennants are won in August and September, if you'll look up the records. We aren't claiming any pennants, of course, but we're going to win a lot of ball games from now out."

He Is a Real Boss and Has All the Needed Power

Tris is a real manager, with all the power a manager should have, and we wouldn't be surprised if he did a bit of trading in the not distant future. He isn't the sort to let a ball club fall away to nothing before his strengthens the weak spots.

The well-known atmosphere is crowded with trade rumors just now, and it wouldn't startle the world if several of the A. L. clubs, that have not lived up to promise this campaign, really did do some serious shifting before the time limit is passed. Getting the real dope is more difficult than grabbing the feminine ages, after the flapper age has been passed. But where there's so much popping off, something must be steaming.

Our old friend, John Stuffy McInnis of Gloucester, has faded a bit out of the big hitting caliburn, but he's still fielding his base with all the very best of them. He has shifting down to a real art, and does the scrambling stuff just as well as the younger Sisler party. He turned several near-hits into deaths by that little trick yesterday, and in the course of a season erases large flocks the same way.

THREE BATTLES IN TWILIGHT TONIGHT

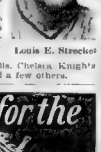
There will be three more baseball tussles in the Greater Boston Twilight League this evening. Malden Knights of Columbus will meet the South Boston All Stars at the C. J. Lee grounds, St. Andrews of Forest Hills will travel to the Little River grounds in Lynn, where they will meet the Cornet All Stars. The third tussle will be staged in Reading, with the J. J. Connelly club of Roxbury as the attraction.

With these three tussles going on there should be plenty of action in the infant league. The St. Andrews A. A., who met the new Lynn representatives in the league will have to hustle in order to come home victorious. A triumph by the Forest Hills outfit is greatly needed, as it has lost already to the Dorchester club.

The Malden Knights who are running about the orchard with a smile, having acquired the right by finishing second in the first half of the league fight will make it tough for the South Boston All Stars. This will make a rather good attraction for the late matinee pastime followers in the peninsular district.

If anybody in Reading is lying about idle, let him just journey to Reading Park, and he will get plenty of action. It was only last week these two nines met, and although the home nine tripped the J. J. Connelly club of Roxbury, the game wasn't won until the visitors died in a hard struggle.

STRECKER HEAVES MEAN BALL



Louis E. Strecker

Here is a youthful left-hand twirler, Lefty Strecker of Jamaica Plain, who has been heaving excellent ball of late. All season the southpaw mounded the rubber for the Emmett Club of Parkway Jacket. R. I. and went like a house afire.

This season Strecker has swung fourteen games out of sixteen starts in which he twirled for the St. Andrew's A. A. of Forest Hills, Chelsea Knights of Columbus and a few others.

Raymie Skilton Is to Play for Medford

Raymie Skilton has secured his release from the Dorchester Club of the Twilight League by virtue of his purchase of a share in the Medfordford city team. Skilton's agreement with Dorchester contained a clause allowing his release if he could become a shareholder in any of the other league clubs, and he is therefore in good standing as a member of the Medford outfit. George Gaw, who had the same agreement, is also a member in good standing of the Medford team.

BRITISH GOLFERS HERE FOR MATCHES

New York, July 12.—J. H. Taylor and Alexander (Sandy) Herd British golf professionals, arrived today on the Olympic for an exhibition tour of the United States and Canada. They were to play their first match today at White Plains.

Herd and Taylor will strengthen the forces of British golf pros already in this country. Abe Mitchell and George Duncan arrived recently and are playing in the open championship at Skokie. The quartet will meet only once during their tour, when they play a four-ball match over the Merion Cricket Club links, Philadelphia, on September 16.

MUST NOT PLAY GOLF ON SUNDAY

Concord, N. H., July 13.—Golf players were warned today not to indulge in their pastime on Sunday in a letter addressed by County Solicitor Hanlo to the officers of the Beaver Meadow Golf Club of this city. This action followed complaints after the assignment in Police Court yesterday of fifteen men who participated in a baseball game here July 9.

The baseball players pleaded nolo contendere and their cases were continued until July 17. Those interested in Sunday baseball have threatened if their games are prohibited, they will move for rigid enforcement of the ancient blue laws, by which all sportings are forbidden on Sunday.

A threat has been directed against Sunday motorists and prosecution of the campaign would ban canoeing and bathing on the Contoocook River, it is here. Under the blue laws a Sunday afternoon stroll with one's wife and children is illegal.

ORIOLES

The Bunker Hill Orioles of Charlestown challenge the Mohawks of Everett, Hayes Square All Stars of Charlestown and any fourteen-sixteen year-old teams in Massachusetts. For games write to William Moore, Care of Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

"Pie" Traynor Day on Saturday, August 5

Harold "Pie" Traynor, the Somerville youth who showed so much baseball as a shortstop that Rabbit Maranville was shifted to second base, will have one of those "days," when next the Pirates come here. He will be the big noise on Saturday, August 5, and his Somerville friends will make it quite an occasion.

They have a ball game planned at home on July 19 between the Somerville B. B. C. and the Somerville All-Stars, two of the best of the fast twilight outfits in these parts. The proceeds will all go toward getting something to make the latest Somerville big leaguer remember the occasion.

WHISKAWAY-GREY LAG RACE HALTED

New York, July 12.—The special race designed to bring together Whiskaway, Harry Payne Whitney champion three-year-old, and Grey Lag, crack four-year-old of the Rancocas stable, at the current meeting of the Empire Racing Association has been indefinitely postponed. This was made known today after Mr. Whitney informed the association that his trainer, James Rowe, felt he could not get Whiskaway ready for such a test before the Empire schedule closes.

BRAVES BREAK THEIR LOSING STREAK

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 12.—The weather man may stop the Braves from continuing their winning streak, which, it is hoped, was started yesterday, as thunderstorms have been raging during the night, but if the clouds whirl themselves away by afternoon the Braves and Pirates will resume the argument.

Manager Mitchell is not decided on his pitcher for today, but he will likely work out two or three of them and pick out the one that shows the most stuff. Wilbur Cooper and Moses Yellowstone are scheduled for mound honors by the local manager, but it will not matter much who twirls if the Braves can keep up the batting spree they uncorked yesterday afternoon.

Seventeen juicy hits for a total of twenty-eight bases added to three walks, summed up their efforts at the bat, and it brought relief from the chasm of defeat in which they had been floundering for some time.

Fred Nicholson, in a way, was the hero of the affair yesterday, as he came on the scene at a time when the old ball game was anybody's and the Braves had two men on.

The ex Pirate swatted a Hamiltonian offering for three bases that scored a couple of runs and was the signal for a perfect avalanche of safe blows until seven big markers were on the board. Fred is a mighty handy substitute player to have around.

Horace Ford should not be overlooked, his single and triple in one inning being out of the usual, and his total was three out of five times up. Besides he ate up everything that came his way around the short field.

Tony Boeckel was not as pernicious as usual against the Pirates, for he always takes delight in helping to beat the Bucs, sometimes even lookin g up to Barney Dreyfus box and giving him the laugh. However, Tony attended strictly to business, with a hit, a sacrifice and a walk.

Hoike and Kopf played the ball to a T for Pittsburgh, both these infielders making marvelous catches near the grandstand wall.

DUNDEE TO FIGHT DANNY FRUSH

New York, July 12.—Johnny Dundee and Danny Frush have signed to fight for the world's feather-weight championship as recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission. The bout will take place at 125th Street Field, Brooklyn, August 14 and is the outcome of the local commission's verdict whereby Johnny Kilbane's feather-weight title was declared null and void in New York. The decision has not been accepted anywhere else, however.

Way Stars Twinkle

THERE are several reasons why stars twinkle, the chief being atmospheric conditions. Twinkling increases as the temperature falls and as the barometer rises. Humboldt, in the tropics, found that the stars shone with a mild, planetary light.

Souls for Sale

RUPERT HUGHES' GREATEST NOVEL

What Would YOU Do?

IF you were beautiful young Remember Steddon, a Massachusetts minister's daughter, whose sweetheart died before the wedding, would you try to bring up your baby among those who knew you in your own home town? Or would you run away for a fresh start with new surroundings? If you had your living to make, would you try to get into the movies? Dr. Bretherick, the family physician, advised Remember to go West. This she did, writing her parents a fictitious tale of having married and lost her "husband." She falls from a cliff and is told that the accident caused the death of her unborn child. Remember arrives in Los Angeles and determines to "pay the price" for a chance in the movies, but is refused. She is coached by Director Clavmore. She takes an auto ride with him and is held up by a bandit in the midst of a love passage. This struggle of a young girl to work out her own salvation is stirringly told in Rupert Hughes' greatest novel. Go on with the story.

IN the yard next door blackbirds were breakfast hunting. She noted that each glittering mite was nagged and bullied by a fat brown female. When he found a worm she ran and took it away from him. When he did not find one she nipped him with her bill or made a pathetic racket. If he tried to swallow one unobserved she made his disgorge it. If she stumbled over one as she waddled she kept it herself. Her motto seemed to be the old phrase Mem had heard as a child: "What's yours is mine; what's mine is mine."

No wonder the males were so sleek and crisply alert. No wonder their womenfolk were so obese and petulant.

Mem thought she saw the old-fashioned housewife in the female blackbird. She grew plump on the toil of her smart husband, and contributed little but an appetite and a number of new beaks for him to feed.

She was glad that she would not be such a woman. She would find her own food and pay her way, and she would pay it handsomely. She filled her breast with a deep draught of this pride. She had been wicked once by inclination, but then she had been wicked as an old fashioned home-keeping girl. Now her wickedness was to be real, at least, and she would not let Claymore take the blame, for when you take the blame you take the credit, too, and the control.

She would be no man a chattel to muse or muse.

The blackbirds gave her a contempt for the ideal woman of old, an exultance over being a real woman of now.

She stood and watched the lustrous creatures for a long while. Vance Thompson had squandered sonns of the opulence of his style on the blackbirds of Lot in Paris. Knowing the world as few men know it, he gave the city supreme praise, declaring that Paris, Monte Carlo, or Palermo, "And yet," he wrote, "I've fallen in love with the birds. Especially those grave and beautiful blackbirds. There are a dozen of them on my lawn—I can see them from the window. The gentlemen wear blackly cut jib cassocks and the ladies are dressed in soft nun-colored brown. And they are somebody, too, full of stepping, so busy and blithe, that they look like predestined citizens of Los Angeles. Symbols and types. Every city has its birds. Venice has its pigeons of Saint Mark's. Moscow its crows, those secular monks of the Kremlin; Paris has its sparrows, and Stockholm its swans—ah, those black swans of the Djurgarden!—and your California blackbird is the bird, blessed and appointed, of Los Angeles."

Musing upon the feathered hippeds, the high-stepping fabellas in the drooping Deadamonas of Briddom, Mem's mind was wondered of its fervors. But her [illegible] grew chill. Her bare ankles brushed dewy leaf and she fled into the house. The light scourged her wounded eyes.

Two days later she began work with Tom Holby's company in a new studio—a great establishment where one could rent space, scenery, all or any portion of a production from manuscript to distribution.

A number of the farthest-famed stars occasionally made pictures there—Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Betty Compson and many another.

Mem had been lent out to Holby. If she were a slave, she was at least received as a captured Circassian whose might be received by a sultan who had bought her at a high price.

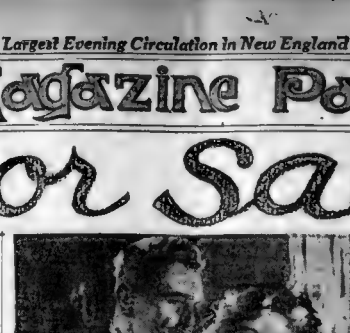
When she appeared on the lot Holby greeted her in person. He led her into his office and described the part she was to play, read her the big scenes.

He bemoaned the artificiality and triteness of the plot. It was warmed over like funeral baked meats. He had longed to do a story adapted from W. J. Locke's novel "Septimus."

Holby had wanted to play the simple Septimus. Mem, who had read no novels at all till recently, was horribly illiterate in famous names. But she was wondrously stirred by this story as Holby had told it.

Septimus loved a girl who merely liked him. She loved another man—loved him "too well," as the curious saying is. He "betrayed" her, an excellent curious saying is, and when he had gone beyond her reach she found that she was to become a mother—still using the stock phrases.

Holby noted that Mem was all ashiver over the situation. He never dreamed that it had been her own, her very own. He though that he had frightened her prudery and he tried to soften his phrases still more.



Holby noted that Mem was all ashiver over the situation.

But she was uncontrollably agitated when he went on with the plot and told how Septimus, for all his innocence, discovered the cause of the girl's dismay—and, knowing all, offered to marry her so that her child might have a name, so that the girl be idolized might not be driven to desperation.

"Are there men like that?" Mem gasped.

Holby looked at her and interpreted her question as a cynicism.

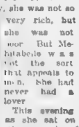
"Oh yes," he answered, earnestly. "There must be lots of men like that. If I loved a girl and found her in such a plight, I think I would—I hope I would—offer to help her through it. It wouldn't be much of a love that would die at such a situation, would it?"

Mem fell to thinking. A ferocious temptation assailed her to confess to Tom Holby that she had been such a girl herself, but had never dreamed that such a man existed.

Perhaps when Tom Holby had courted her a little there in Palm Canon, if she had not rebuffed and despised him, but had told him the truth, he might have offered her his famous name; they might have been married and she might now be sitting with him in their own home with a living child at her quick breast. The vision shook her like a blast of hot desert wind. Her baby had never seen the world. She had never seen its face. Where had it been waited and whither had it returned? Had it joined 'is father in that strange overgrave realm?

For a few moments Mem longed to be a wife and mother so insanely that she could hardly check the cry of protest at the denial. She forgot her brave independence of the early morning, her pride in her artistic self-sufficiency. She wanted to be an "old fashioned woman," to be fed by her husband and to feed his children.

But while the tempest was raging inside her soul she was so remote from her body that her face had not disclosed her thoughts at all. What Tom Holby saw was a dreary mask, which he misinterpreted as mild disdain for such romantic



When she spoke at last she merely asked:

"And why didn't you play Septimus on the screen, as the story you would have done in real life?"

"The censors!" he snarled. "They've got everybody frightened to death." In Pennsylvania and other States you can't even refer to approaching maternity. The producers don't want to make pictures with a big market cut off in advance, so we've got to be more prudish than a Sunday-school library.

"The censors seem to feed that if they keep the motion picture audience from even learning that babies are born of their mothers a great blow will be struck for morality. The books and magazines and newspapers can talk of twilight sleep and birth control and everything, but the poor movies can't even show a young wife sewing on baby clothes.

"But let's not talk of censorship. I froth at the mouth every time I think of the shame and the tyranny and the asininity of it. The story of Septimus would have been beautiful. It is as clean as the parable in the Bible about the woman taken in adultery, and that's the given to little girls to read and it's preached in all the pulpits. But on the screen it would immediately send all the audience out to get into trouble. Anyway, I can't do the story and we've had to cook up this mess of denaturated realism we're going to do. But, Lord! how I should have loved to play Septimus and have you play the pitiful little girl I would have married. In the story she married Septimus and came to love him so dearly that when she met the other man she hated him."

He fell into a silent white and Mem dreamed tremendous dreams, vain and steady frustrated, but beautiful with all the elegy of the might-have-been.

People make love unconsciously at times and in the truest companships never a word is spoken. Two souls travel mystic gardens together and come to deep understandings without the exchange of a syllabled thought.

Mem was so wound by Holby. The mere brooding upon him as a lover, a husband, a protector who would once have evived an ugly problem into beauty, presented him to Mem in a light of compelling warmth.

His tried to shake off the spell, but from now on there was an aureole of chivalrous self-sacrifice about Tom Holby that changed him altogether from the flippant too polite, and far too popular kind of foolish girls that she had hated him.

All through the taking of that picture Mem was watched him, and a lattice that hid her from him, but disclosed him to her in the kindliest sun.

The picture had to be made in record time because the producers had a limited capital and an unlimited experience of the disastrous expense of leisureliness.

The director, Kendrick, was a slave driver, a worshiper of schedules. He demanded that the people be on the set made up, costumed, coiffed, and wide awake, so that the cameras might begin to grind at nine sharp. But he was not so parental about letting the weary trouners knock off at five. He kept them often till nearly seven.

When Mem's day of toil was over she was so footsore, so sour-sore, and had seen so much of Tom Holby and his manufactured love, that she had no inclination to see him of evenings, and he made no effort to see her.

She crept into her bed at nine when she was not kept at the studio for night work. She was called at six and began the day with a long and dreary building up of a false complexion, layer on layer line by line.

She rarely saw Tom Holby's real face. He also was painted like an Indian brave.

But for all the fatigue and the artificiality, there was a feeling of delight and of friendliness on the stages. Co-operation was necessary and it was the custom. The technical problems were innumerable and their discussions as scientific as laboratory debate.

The reward of rewards was the rapture of creation. Nearly all the members of the company would rather act than eat, rather play feigned sorrows than indulge in real joys. They sought for difficult tasks, they were grateful for demands upon their utmost resources. They sulked only when their toil was diminished or the hours left out of a brave or relaxed to their limit.

Mem's affair with Tom Holby was settling down into the permanent but drab relationship of two business partners. They were as friendly already as an old married couple without ever having known the initiatory rites.

But in this dull fact there lurked a resentful, impatient peril.

There was much skylarking on the set, childlike spontaneity of wit and cynicism and an inexhaustible fascination of craft.

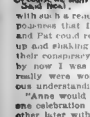
WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By ANN LISLE

SOMEHOW I felt that Pat and Neal had planned this scene and that Rosa Cordova had taken her cue and had given me mine.



Rosa Cordova was wont to "Sand Hens."

"You wouldn't have a family celebration without Jim?" I protested.

It is a little girls heart, of course, we wouldn't" Neal flung back promptly and with such a recurred note of reproach that I wondered how he and Pat could refrain from getting up and shaking hands at the way their conspiracy was working. For by now I was certain that they really were working in harmonious understanding.

"And will be willing to have one celebration for Phoebe—and other later with him present," insisted Pat smilingly.

Neal shook his head, crossing with no trace of self-consciousness, to perch on the arm of Phoebe's chair. He put his hand under her chin and tilted her delicate oval face to meet the warmth in his eyes. His own eyes softened and a delicate pink wavered across her cheeks like a tiny sunrise cloud.

"No welcome home dinner for Phoebe and Neal until Phoebe's big brother is here," he announced with the boyish peevishness I adore.

"What do you say, Mrs. Hyland?"

"Just what you do," replied Phoebe happily, cuddling against his arm so much like a little kitten that no one could feel an embarrassed consciousness of being on at other people's love-making.

Pat turned to Rosa Cordova with a very grave and polished display of emotions. It is possible that he doesn't dream her rancor could extend to the two happy young creatures who've come home with the spirit of love and homecoming still in their hearts.

"I'll be the bride! They don't need to have any feasts made for them," he said heartily. "Our Neal is a twenty-three now, and Phoebe's kins may have had her eighteenth birthday, but I doubt it. We're nothing easier and lodged to show you in our family than this Springtime romance. But this glimpse may be all we can offer for a while, because I suspect the bride and groom of intending to be very exclusive with their company."

This was perfect. It covered the situation for a time at least. But it didn't do more than to temporize the day of reckoning when I'd either make good and persuade Virginia to take Phoebe back to her heart—or feel that I'd miserably failed my Neal.

Rosa Cordova beamed at Pat and Neal alike, but I felt her eyes narrowing in appraisal as she studied Phoebe.

"We were like love-birds, too—my Ramon and me. But now it is funny, is it not? He left me to come away to make long-time visit in your Estados Unidos, while he and Jaime amuse themselves—how I do not know—down on our rancho. Maybe it is as well that Mrs. Jaime and I—we do not have to be reminded of how it was once with us and our love's young dream, or what you call it."

It was indescribably malicious and everyone seemed to shink at the unpleasantness back of the slow dripping sweetness of the fluting voice. Again, however, Pat came to the rescue.

"Anne, I'm sure you want to have a Business conference with Mrs. Cordova so you'll have 'the rest of the day free for Phoebe and Neal. And I've a few matters to go into with the lad, so we will take Mrs. Hyland along to learn the real estate boom while you two straighten out your international complications."

"We got those all straightened out this morning," I began, but Rosa Cordova interrupted me with evident purpose.

"I said mornings for business at Jaime's office. But afternoons I make my headquarters in mine by so good friend Pat. And if you and I have—as now—something to straighten out without that Phoebe-keeper's dove shall hear, we make our confidences in this room Pat have so kindly given over to me for three hour or so at each time. Only in this so strenuous city, I must go without siesta—no?"

The serene insolence of this birdlike, fluttering creature struck me as so neat that it seemed hardly possible her little body should contain it. And I wondered—if she was going to start flirting with Pat right under Virginia's nose.

DAILY SHORT STORY

By R. F. Hamill.

MEHITABELLE was not so very old, only thirty-four, she was not so very pretty, but she was far from ugly, she was not so very rich, but she was not poor. But Mehitabelle was not the sort that appeals to men, she had never had a lover.

She was not the sort that appeals to the humor of hotel her thoughts began to roam the old, old way. Should she ever know the love that flowers and the more as she saw her youth slip by?

Mehitabelle looked around her, trying to find among the gay throng some one of her acquaintance. None was there. She was glad of this, for she felt that among strangers she would be more likely to find the man, the man of whom she dreamed.

Suddenly her glance was arrested. He was tall, this man, and had that air of good breeding that Mehitabelle demanded in her dream idols.

A few seconds later she saw him rise and come toward her. Her pulses quickened.

"I humbly beg your pardon," he said, as he stopped before her chair. "But I am a stranger in a strange land, and I thought you seemed one also, therefore I——"

But Mehitabelle interrupted him with a wave of her hand toward a near by chair. She was doing very well, she thought.

"Don't bother to explain," she said. "I understand your feelings perfectly. I feel that I must talk to someone, and I have just finished watching myself that there is no one here I know."

He laughed. She felt his gaze upon her as he seated himself. She hoped that her rather large pearl necklace did not seem out of place.

"Quite a lively place, isn't it?" The man had made himself comfortable in the chair beside her. "Seems strange that in such a crowd there should be no one either of us know."

Mehitabelle thanked Providence that such was the case. She smiled as she turned to him.

She felt sure that she had catalogued him fairly well. He was, she decided, either a corporation executive or a lawyer.

"Suppose we take a stroll," the man proposed. "The grounds here are lovely, and there is a moon tonight. We might as well carry the romance of our meeting a little further, don't you think?"

The park was beautiful in the moonlight. The palms seemed to beckon them as the soft breeze moved their branches.

Suddenly he stopped and drew her to him.

Mehitabelle surged toward him. Irresistible forces seemed to be urging her. The man bent over her, pressed her close to him, held her tight, then kissed her.

All at once Mehitabelle pushed him away. Her face was white at first with a softer emotion, then with anger. Her voice was tense.

"I" she said, her tones like steel.

Five minutes after the man stood in the station, waiting impatiently for his train. He smiled, as at some pleasurable remembrance.

"I wonder if she's discovered her loss. Gee, that's the easiest one I ever pulled. I'll bet it's worth a cool thousand."

In her room at the hotel Mehitabella lay on her bed. Her eyes were wet with tears, yet she smiled as she murmured to herself.

"I don't mind the loss of the pearls so much, but to think of my being such a fool. When he kissed me and then unloosened the neck lace I thought I'd die. But I've had the moment I wished for."

How to Make Raspberry Jam With One Minute's Boiling

Makes One-Half More from Same Amount of Fruit—Saves All Color and Flavor—Never Fails

As a spread on hot biscuits, toast, or waffles, raspberry jam has few equals—the fresh, pungent flavor certainly brings back the sharp appetite of childhood. By a new process that revolutionizes all cookbook traditions, the housewife is now able to put up this delicacy quicker, more economically, with better and surer results. It's called the Certo Process.

With Certo you use the fully-ripened raspberries; only one minute's boiling is required, and a generous half hour or more the old way calls for. The result is a far more fruity flavor and one-half more product from the same amount of fruit, because no juice has boiled away. And you get the taste of fresh berry, the kind you used to pick in the old berry patch down by the woods, now stored up for you for winter use.

This is the Certo Recipe for Raspberry Jam:

Crush well about 2 quarts of ripe berries, using wooden masher. Add juice of 1 lemon. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs) crushed berries, including lemon juice, into large kettle. Add 7½ leveled cups (3¼ lbs) sugar and mix well. Stir hard and constantly and bring to a vigorous boil over the hottest fire. Boil hard for one full minute with continual stirring. Remove from fire and add ½ bottle (scant half cup) Certo, stirring it in well. From the time jam is taken off the fire let stand 5 minutes only, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime skim. Then pour quickly. For raspberry jelly, see Certo Book for Recipes.

Important: Best way to seal Jams and Jellies is open glasses. Cover white hot with thin coat hot paraffin. Next day add tablespoonful hot paraffin to seal cracks around edge formed by shrinkage on cooling.

Certo is a pure fruit product—it contains no gelatine or preservative. It is Nature's own concentrated jell-maker put up by a practical form to take all anxiety and guess work from jelly and jam-making and does away with the long process for the housewife. Results never fail even with inexperienced cooks. Has fine keeping qualities. Housewives and cooking experts alike warmly endorse it and pass on the good news to their friends. There are articles about Certo coming out in the papers all over the country.

You can get Certo from your grocer or druggist, or he can quickly order it for you. The Book of Recipes comes with every bottle, or you can obtain additional free copies for yourself or your friends by addressing Pectin Sales Co., Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

Get a bottle of Certo today; sugar is cheap, berries in the market. Start making jam and jelly the new easy Certo way. You will never return to the old "hit or miss" method.

If your grocer or druggist does not have Certo, please telephone Miss Dwyer, Ft. Hill 1004, to learn where to obtain it.

THE EDISON ELECTRIC ILLUMINATING COMPANY OF BOSTON

DIVIDEND NO. 123

A quarterly dividend of three (3) per cent has been declared, payable August 1, 1922, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 18, 1922.

T. K. CUMMINGS, Treasurer.

Boston, July 12, 1922.

150,000,000 Guilders

Kingdom of the Netherlands

(HOLLAND)

Fifty-Year 6% Sinking Fund Bonds, Series "B"

(Simultaneous offering in the United States and Holland)

Dated July 1, 1922 — Due March 1, 1972

Non-callable before 1932

Coupon bonds in denomination of 2,500 Guilders (at par of exchange $1,005)

Principal and interest payable at the head office of Nederlandsche Bank in Amsterdam in Guilders and in New York through the office of Dillon, Read & Co., as fiscal agents for the loan in the United States, in dollars at the current rate of exchange prevailing at the time of payment

A Sinking Fund is provided beginning March 1, 1933, to retire the entire issue by call lot of one-fortieth annually at par and interest. Issue callable on and after March 1, 1932, at par as a whole only, except for sinking fund. Interest payable March 1 and September 1. Free of all present and future taxes of the Kingdom of the Netherlands. Text of Definitive Bond in both English and Dutch. Application will be made in due course to list on the New York Stock Exchange.

The following statements have been approved by L. J. A. Trip, Esq., the Treasurer General of the Kingdom of the Netherlands:

These bonds are the direct obligation of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, and together with 150,000,000 guilders bonds sold in the United States and Holland in February, 1922, are authorized by Act of Parliament approved February 17, 1922. Holland has been for centuries one of the foremost financial and commercial powers of the world, and for generations one of the most important markets for United States and other foreign securities. Amsterdam, the leading city, to-day occupies a position of the greatest international importance as a banking and commercial center.

The total funded debt of Holland at the close of the year 1921 was 2,435,600,000 guilders, all issued and sold in Holland. This is at the rate of less than $140 per capita, at par of exchange, compared with approximately $195 per capita in the United States and approximately $650 per capita in Great Britain. Holland's funded debt issued before the War carries coupons at rates of 2½%, 3% and 3½% per annum. Prior to the initial issue of these 50-year 6% bonds, all funded debt issued since 1914 has carried coupons at rates of 5% or under.

The monetary unit of Holland is the guilder (florin), with a value at par of exchange of 40.2 cents in the United States.

Before the War the currencies of all nations on a "Gold Basis" remained practically at par and any material variations which occurred were automatically rectified by the shipment of gold. During the War, and immediately subsequent thereto, other factors incident to the War restricting such shipments of gold controlled the course of Exchange and, in the case of Holland, caused the guilder to fluctuate between a premium of approximately 30% and a discount relatively as great. As conditions are becoming more normal the guilder is gradually approaching its parity of 40.2 cents to the dollar, and is at present selling at a discount of only about 3%.

The Bank of the Netherlands (Holland's only Bank of issue) had a gold reserve against its circulation of over 62% as of June 19, 1922, compared with a reserve of 52% in July, 1914. To-day the guilder commands a premium of over 5% in London.

A syndicate of bankers in Holland headed by The Nederlandsche Handel-Maatschappij and including the Rotterdamsche Bankvereeniging, the Amsterdamsche Bank, the Amsterdam Branch of the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas, De Twentsche Bank, Lippmann, Rosenthal & Co., R. Mees & Zoonen, Nederlandsch-Indische Handelsbank and Pierson & Co., representing the issue in Holland, and the Dillon, Read & Co. syndicate, representing the issue in the United States, have purchased these bonds from the Netherlands Government, and this Holland syndicate is making an offering simultaneously in Amsterdam for temporary bonds of like denomination listed on the Amsterdam Stock Exchange

Price $960 per Bond

(Interest at the rate of 6% will be charged on this price from July 25 to date of delivery)

To yield about 6.10% to maturity, and 6.20% if called in 1932

(These yields are based upon exchange at 39 cents per Guilder. With exchange returning to par of 40.2 cents within six months and remaining at that figure, the yield to earliest date of redemption (1932) will be about 6.65%, and to maturity, about 6.30 %)

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

By FRANK H. MELOON.

What is to be the future of New England's shipping industry? This depends, of course, upon whether it is to be fostered by subsidy action, which has proved so successful wherever tried, or must depend upon getting the crumbs of business for which its more fortunately-situated rivals do not care.

President Harding backs the subsidy bill. He has made it the subject of a message to Congress. He has talked for it in season and out, but we cannot say it has got anywhere as yet. Last week a few of the people's representatives in Washington progressed so far as to plan asking the President if he wouldn't consent to delay subsidy action for the present—they didn't like his idea of calling a special session of Congress to take up this important measure in case the present session failed to act.

• • •

Let us be charitable and assume this was not the attitude of the majority. Yet, seriously speaking, has it not been the prevailing sentiment at Washington back to the days when that city was headquarters for British and American shipping practically wiped out on the seas?

• • •

Ship subsidy talk has been heard since the Spanish-American war period, and in McKinley's day it appealed especially to party platform builders. Harding is the first man in the White House to make subsidy action appear even a possibility.

• • •

In the stock market a while ago, when it looked as if the measure would materialize, shipping stocks came out of the doldrums and moved forward spiritedly. The men and women with their money backing our shipping knew very well what a good subsidy measure would mean to them, putting them on better footing with their rivals, especially with their British competitors. As hope of quick action faded, American shipping issues went down.

• • •

President Franklin of the big "Marine" combine stated frankly why the stock of his concern would not be lifted by subsidy bill action—because it was around ninety per cent. under other flags than the American. That ought to mean something to anyone disposed to argue in favor of the subsidy bill.

In war period prosperity, just as New England shipping firms were booming, with new ones being organized overnight, no one appears to have given a thought to the future. When the coal export embargo sent many to the wall, the decline began, and has continued since with such abandonment as has been afforded by a lack of material to work upon.

The tonnage of idle ships tied up in Boston's awhile ago was probably as great as that of the aggregate of all the vessels that appeared here in any year of our heyday as a port of sail, before steam killed the questionable "romance" of seafaring.

• • •

A few public-spirited citizens have sought to awaken general interest in remedying conditions, stirred by such an object lesson at their very waterfront. But there has been nothing actually achieved, and it does not look as if there would be unless the ship subsidy bill is passed. Even that is not going to be a panacea for all evils. There will be other things to do, and of them we can speak "in the day thereof."

While working for the port of Boston, we ought to put in a word in behalf of Portsmouth, N. H., and Portland, Me. They, too, were great ports in the days when we were second to none in the energy of our shipping, and will doubtless share with Boston whatever prosperity lies ahead.

• • •

Irving T. Bush, president of the New York Chamber of Commerce, just back from abroad, warns us we may expect keener competition from Great Britain from now on. He declares England is just feeling the first quiver of industrial revival.

If nearly all the overseas commerce that is done in other than American bottoms, what will become of New England shipping, when it is left without due assistance against fresh and fiercer rivalry?

• • •

But we are not pessimistic. We believe our people need only to be reminded to stir themselves and to keep stirred until results are achieved.

A Word to Women Voters

Now Is the Time to Study the Issues and the Facts Involved in the Coming Election

A word to our women voters. The issues which will determine the election of our State officers are already made, or, as the lawyers say, the issues are already joined. The records of the candidates are already made. It is most unlikely that anything will occur between now and election which will very materially alter those records.

On the other hand, the work of Congress is still uncompleted, though the Republicans have given an intimation of their general attitude toward the tariff and other questions, and the Democrats have done likewise. So, although every member of Congress of both parties has given an intimation of his attitude on the important questions, yet until the vote is taken they are privileged to change their minds. Thus their records are not complete and the issue is not joined concerning the national election this Fall. But the evidence is pretty nearly all in. There are not many changes between July and November in our national politics. Therefore, now is the time to begin to study the issues and the facts which must control us all in the determination of our choices for the offices which we must fill at the coming election.

Concerning the State issues, the situation is simple. We have first to determine as Republicans or Democrats whom we shall nominate. Then we have to determine whom we shall elect.

Governor Cox has served one term. It is the invariable custom of Republicans and Democrats alike to renominate the man who has served his first term well. That is the reward of faithful service. The question concerning the nomination for Governor for the Republicans is simply to decide the question whether Governor Cox has served his first term faithfully and intelligently. For the Democrats, the question is more difficult. The Democrats must first find a man of strength, character, experience and integrity, whose political principles agree with theirs, and who proposes to do what they most want done.

The nomination for Attorney-General is also a very important one, and our women should give great attention to the selection both for nomination and for election of the man they want to put into the Attorney-General's office. He is the chief law officer of the State. He has great power for good or evil. He should be a good lawyer, a fearless and upright man who plays no favorites, but hews to the line and lets the chips fall where they may.

Nor should our women overlook the candidates for Representative and for Senator. They become our law-makers and their character and the principles require the attention of their constituents. We pay too little attention to the office of Representative and Senator, and thus they become the spoil of party machines or men of money or hand-shaking ability. We want less of that in the Legislature. It would be a very good thing if the League of Women Voters or some other women's organizations would undertake to get the record of every member of the Legislature and every Senator and have those records discussed at the meetings of women's organizations.

Demand for Labor

Government Statistics Show Increase in Fifty-Two Leading Cities Out of Sixty-Five.

The United States Department of Labor calls public attention to the fact that there is a steady increase and demand for labor throughout the country. Out of sixty-five leading cities, fifty-two have reported increased employment.

This is very pleasing news. We have been a long time in the doldrums. Labor has been unemployed; capital has been unemployed and the country has reached that psychological condition which makes an ideal devil's work shop.

Let us hope that the tide really has turned and that prosperity and employment for labor and for capital is coming in rapidly.

Our Per Capita Income

The National Bureau of Economic Research publishes some interesting figures concerning the per capita income of our people. It finds that the per capita income of the State of New York is greatest while the per capita income of the Southern States is lowest.

This does not mean that the average man of New York is any better off than the average man in any other country, but it does mean, however, that the great exploiters go to New York to which their huge fortunes are credited.

Affairs in Ireland

What a pity it is that the people of Ireland cannot settle their difficulties among themselves peacefully.

American and Australian public opinion largely influence Irish affairs and if we all who are friends of Ireland would unite in thought and speech to deprecate the Civil War in Ireland and to insist upon the right of a majority to rule, we might help to compose the unhappy affairs of Ireland and to allow her people to enjoy peace once more.

Visions Have Changed

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Mr. Rice, "religious eccentric," of Nada, Kentucky, has eaten nothing for fifty-five days. A vision told him to show his neighbors how redemption can be obtained through sacrifice.

Mr. Voliva, who combines religion and profit, as Voltaire combined the other thing and profit, also had a vision and tells you the world is coming to an end.

Mr. Rice will die of hunger or otherwise, Mr. Voliva will die and the world will roll on. Visions are less reliable than they used to be. Once they gave away their real estate when they predicted the world's end. Mr. Voliva does not do that. He keeps real estate and visions separate.

The Voice of New England

Abolish English Language

Editor Boston American:

With regard to the deadly propaganda this country of ours is being flooded with at the present time, I certainly think strict measures should be immediately adopted to combat it. Everything remotely suggestive of the British Empire must be eradicated in order that our children may not be contaminated.

First and foremost, let us eliminate the English language from our land entirely, substituting, say, Esperanto, or, better still, let some patriot prepare a really true, red-blooded, 100 per cent. American language. Then, again, I notice one of your readers complains that the hymn "America" has a tune to which the English sing their national anthem, "God Save the King," and for this reason should be discontinued. Let us put a stop to it as soon as possible, and show these Britishers exactly what we think of them.

JOHN CHARITY.

Poor Milk

Editor Boston American:

It is about time the authorities got after the milkmen. Price going up again and no change in the quality of milk sold. From the wagons of a certain large company I have had milk of the thinnest quality. Whether it is "tired" by the driver or is known to the officials of the concern, it certainly is not worth the present price. M. BARLOW.

South End.

Freedom for Legs

Editor Boston American:

Gowns are to be worn longer. This is fashion's edict, but Boston women refuse to comply. Having found freedom for their legs, they like it and are as slow to adopt the new style as they were to get them. Their limbs a few years ago. I am a dress salesman and as yet all my efforts have been in vain to sell the latest goods. Boston is always a year or two behind New York.

Revere Beach Cars

Editor Boston American:

The running of the East Boston tunnel cars through to Revere Beach for a nickel extra is a great boon and is certainly taken full advantage of. Full is the word. I waited at Beachmont Sunday afternoon for a car to Boston, and had to let four go by. They were packed to the doors. Finally managed to squeeze in with my family, but had to stand all the way to Scollay square. As the road seems to need money, why not put an more cars. If a grocer sold all his wares every day he would certainly get a larger stock and sell more.

Cambridge. P. C.

Dangerous Crossing

Editor Boston American:

One of the most dangerous crossings in Boston is at the corner of West Newton street and Columbus avenue. Accidents frequently happen there. Warren avenue also contributes its quota of autos to the rushing stream. The street and avenues are broad and the cars dodge about in a most bewildering manner. A policeman is stationed there at certain hours, but should be kept on duty constantly.

MARY KNEELAND.

Price of Canteloupes

Editor Boston American:

The news columns of the daily papers tell us of tons of melons being left to rot in Colorado and of the New York market being glutted to the extent that the fruit is selling there for about one cent at wholesale, while here in Boston the retail price is from 10 to 15 cents.

Does any consideration of the cost of transportation and handling justify such a difference. Verily, Boston is a long-suffering city. A little application of the boycott on melons by the home wives of the city should be effective.

Miners' Pay

Editor, Boston American:

Just a few lines in answer to the letter of "C. S.," Brookline, in regard to the miners' wage in and around the coal fields of southern Indiana. He objects to the large amount of pay they get, but if he had to go down in a mine and dig his own Winter's supply you would soon see him around trying to hire someone else to do it. I have been sixteen years a miner and none knows better than I how dangerous the work is.

OLD-TIME MINER.

Slaterville, R. I.

ON THE TABLE-LAND OF AGE THE AIR IS INVIGORATING

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

GROWING old gracefully has always been a notable achievement in the art of living.

Old folks differ greatly in appearance. Some look like ugly wrecks on the shore of the ocean of time. Others like lovely rocks weather-beaten but beautiful in the glow of the setting sun.

When you meet aged men or women whose spirit is mellow and strong, and wonder how they achieved their triumph over time, which usually defeats the children of man long before death mercifully removes them.

And when such a one happens to be among the well-known of their day, the inevitable newspaper interviewer makes pertinent inquiry on behalf of an emulously eager public.

We all want to know how it feels to be eighty, ninety or a hundred, without finding that surplus beyond the traditional three-score-and-ten "but weariness and sorrow."

The late Marion Harland not long before her death gave a Fonzo de Leon prescription. Said she: "If you want to stay young, have some work you like, something to get you up in the morning."

The Germans have a proverb to the effect that the morning hour has gold in its mouth. But it is good to know from one decently old person that it also brings the gift of vitality and health.

Furthermore, Marion Harland said: "I do not mind growing old. Up on the table-land of age the air is invigorating."

Such a sentiment brings with it a mountain breeze and all the invigoration of a finer ether, such as the immortals themselves must breathe.

Every period of human life has its peculiar worth; youth its loveliness, maturing manhood and womanhood its ripening powers, the prime of life its fullness of strength and joy, old age its discernment, serenity, poise and peace.

If you want to enjoy a thoroughly satisfying, stimulating appreciation of the relative value of youth and age, read Robert Browning's "Rabbi ben Ezra."

There you have philosophy in poetic form, appealing to you convincingly, in the name of the aged teacher, to "grow old along with me! the best is yet to be, the last of life for which the first was made."

And, since you may not be familiar with the poem and may not accept this suggestion to read it, by request please thrill at the climax-prayer: "Perfect the cup as planned! Let age approve of youth, and death complete the same!"

On the table-land of age, where the air is clearest, there is at least greater certitude of knowledge of values. And with it remain the three great blessings of human life: the joy of mere living, the blessedness of loving, the inexhaustible satisfaction of thinking.

If This Is Your Birthday

You Are LUCKY

IF today is the anniversary of your birth you should have a good mind, one that is both energetic and accurate, but a little productive than profound. You are too inclined to accept general principles and then apply them with great determination to over-make of yourself a true philosopher. But then again on the other hand you do what you do with such excellent self-control and surety that you are probably regarded on all hands as a straight thinker and a person of greater depth than you actually have.

A child born today will be industrious and inventive and should not be denied the possession of anything it is actually interested in.

Famous Persons Born This Day:

James Ross—Senator.

Henry D. Thoreau—Naturalist.

Nathan C. Meeker—Author and pioneer.

George Eastman—Manufacturer of the kodak.

ARE YOU A FAULT-FINDING GUEST?

You may be going to the country home or the village house of a relative for your Summer vacation.

The food may not suit, but do not make the mistake of buying food and taking it to the home of your host or hostess.

It is evidence that you are not getting what you want.

The butter may not be as hard as in the refrigerator at your home, but do not speak of it.

The water may not be iced as you like it.

But do not make those who are trying to make you comfortable feel any uneasiness or unhappiness by manifesting your displeasure.

If you go to a small village, do not go to a hotel or restaurant for dinner unless you take your host or the whole family with you, for people in small towns talk a great deal and the fact would get back to your relatives.

As their guest you are given the best they have; the best silver, the finest table linen, in fact, all the cream in every way, as they look at it, and if you love your family you will appreciate the loving spirit of cordiality and care more for it than anything else.

SEEN AND HEARD

BOSTON historical guides report flourishing business since the influx of school teachers from all over the country to attend the N. E. A. Points of interest most urgently desired to be viewed by the N. E. A. are our graveyards, of which we have plenty. Appears as even the entire nation knows Boston is dead, living in the past, and a victim of Chinese hookworm-ancestor worship.

The owner of a prosperous soda fountain has just discovered where many of his bottles of tonic have disappeared. For a time every few days when he went to the cellar to replenish his supply of bottled goods, he would find many bottles missing. The other day as the chauffeur of an ice cream concern was removing empty cream cans from the cellar to the auto the store owner thought he heard something rattle inside one of the cans. He called to the man, opened the can and there found a half dozen bottles of ginger ale.

An artist on one of the Boston newspapers takes the prize when it comes to a lunch menu. For the past two years his noon lunch has consisted of two frankfurters and a glass of milk. Six days each week he has them at noon and then occasionally the wife has some at home and he partakes of them once again. "Hot dog!"

"The Boston American is certainly handing it to the Amoskeag," writes one of the textile strikers of the New Hampshire city. "And maybe the strikers aren't delighted," he continues.

Even the feathered "flappers" are getting bolden In the Quincy railroad station, where the roar of incoming and outgoing trains is almost continuous, a number of birds have built their nests upon the platform rafters, and have hatched their young successfully. The little birds don't seems at all perturbed by the metropolitan atmosphere, though one might think they would prefer the beautiful shade trees nearby.

He's probably a professor from Harvard, over here to lecture in us." The speaker was one of the women educators at the National Education Convention. The object of her remark was a tall, dignified gentleman in Mechanics Hall. "He walks too straight for a professor. Perhaps he is a distinguished doctor." This was the conjecture of a second educator. Both were wrong. Their "subject" was MAJOR-GENERAL EDWARDS, "Daddy" of the Yankee Division." In civilian clothes, he was strolling around accompanied by his aid, Major Hyatt.

Bostonians find amusement in reading boasts regarding number of people who visit national parks annually when they recall that any fair Sunday brings as many to Franklin Park as see Yellowstone in the whole year.

Speaking of secretaries, KARL STEINHAUER, the junior outside guard of the Mayor's office, had a narrow escape recently from being painfully burned when a box of matches ignited in his pocket in some manner. A peculiar thing about the blaze was that it burned up several memorandums, but did not burn through the cloth.

No keen is the rivalry among the secretaries attached to MAYOR CURLEY'S official family in the art of swimming that it has gone so far as to a friend proceeding to SECRETARY DANIEL J. GILLEN a book on Swimming by a well-known author. "Dan" says he doesn't need a book, that he can beat any secretary in the hall in keeping himself above water, and especially directed his attack upon SECRETARY "MIKE" WARD, whom he claims he has beaten consistently for over two weeks.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON WIND'S TRICKS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I am reading your very interesting articles daily, and desire information on the following: A friend of mine, a golf player, says that a golf ball sailing through the air on a windy day is not in any way affected by the wind. He admits, however, that a bullet is considerably curved by the resistance and also by the wind. He says his opinion is shared by several high authorities on the matter."—W. H. B., Chicago, Ill.

A GOLF ball, notwithstanding its privileges, is not exempt from obedience to the common laws of motion. Perhaps your friend means that in consequence of some form of "English," or "side," imparted to the ball by the blow of the sender the deflecting effect of the wind may be neutralized. That is quite possible, but, of course, it does not imply any exemption of the ball from the operation of the wind's force.

In such a case the force of the wind is simply balanced by an opposing force; that is all. I hardly think that your friend would expect to drive a ball as far in the teeth of a strong wind as a blow of the same force would drive it in calm air. The spin of a bullet enables it at least partially to overcome deflecting forces, and a similar effect may be produced with a ball having less velocity than a bullet, as is frequently seen in baseball games.

Then, too, a golf ball has more degrees of freedom of spin than a projectile from a gun. But there is plenty of room for exception in such things. The wind is sometimes an astonishing deceiver, full of the most unexpected tricks, visible, like the passes of a conjuror, only in their effects. An ordinary Summer wind blowing across the irregular topography of a golf field may contain a multitude of erratic air currents that would seriously falsify conclusions based on the conduct of a sailing ball, referred to the direction of the wind at the player's standpoint.

"Is the ability of a dog to follow his master over any surface except running water any evidence that the atoms composing human tissues are continuously throwing off electrons in a similar manner to radio-active atoms?—W. E., Chicago.

Your suggestion is interesting, but I do not think that it is necessary to assume that electrons from disintegrating atoms in the human body make the trail that the dog follows. Undoubtedly there is some form of emanation from the body of his master that the dog recognizes through the sense of smell. Very minute quantities of gaseous molecules are given off from every living body as a result of the unceasing physiological processes through which life is maintained, and these should suffice to explain the scent produced on the extremely sensitive olfactory organs of the dog and of certain other lower animals. Many animals have characteristic odors which are sufficiently pronounced to enable even the comparatively undeveloped human sense of smell not only to recognize but to differentiate among them. Cats, dogs, tigers, lions, elephants, camels, horses, cows, birds, domestic fowls, insects, all may be distinguished by means of their typical ordors, but there is no evidence that radio-activity or the escape of free electrons plays any part in the phenomena.

HYSTERICAL, THEY FLOCK TO THE GLARE OF PUBLICITY

By Winifred Black.

GONE to the insane asylum—the "Sweet Pea Girl."

Poor thing! She has been a long time getting there.

I remember when she was young and rather pretty and had a sweet little cooing voice, and she wore dentelle little hats and very taking little frocks and she used to haunt the courtroom where a notorious murder case was being tried.

It was such a hideous, cruel, beastly, cold-blooded murder that there was a guard around the courtroom to keep the mob from taking the prisoner out and hanging him.

The prisoner was a sallow-faced, anemic, dull-eyed, young fellow without an attractive feature in his face.

But every morning, the "Sweet Pea Girl" came into the court room and sat as close to the prisoner at the bar as she could get, and every day she brought him a great glowing, dewy bunch of fragrant sweet peas—pink and rose and lavender. They filled the stuffy courtroom with perfume and set the jurors to dreaming of pleasant gardens and the sun shining on the lawn and little children playing on some sheltered doorstep.

She never missed a day—the "Sweet Pea Girl"—and the papers photographed her and the reporters interviewed her and she was the mystery of the trial.

People laughed at her a good deal. I never could laugh at her. She seemed a pitiful thing to me.

What's the matter with these women who send flowers to murderers?

The same thing that is the matter with the men who send proposals of marriage to murderesses.

There's never a woman tried for murder in the world but at least half a dozen write up in different corners of the earth and write love letters and ask the murderess to honor them with her silly-white hand.

They're not crazy exactly—these men and these women. They are just feeble-minded, hysterical, empty of heart and empty of head. The bright light of publicity dazzles them and they flock to it as moths flock to a candle.
